House Committee Favors 1951 Defense Increase

Parents Reunited With Kidnaped Baby

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holden gaze at their month-old baby, Chaneta, held by Nurse Frances Drew, after the tot was returned, April 25, to Lincoln Hospital, New York city. The baby, who had disappeared from an incubator in the hospital last march 30, was found early April 25 in the storeroom of a small mid-Manhattan hotel. Mrs. Evelyn Jane Jordan, an 18-year-old chambermaid in the hotel, was being held by police in connection with the baby's kidnaping. The premature child weighed only two pounds, 11 ounces at birth.

Kerhonkson Fire Hall Suffers $30,000 Loss

Assembly Room Blaze Imperils Village Equipment; Flames Are Confined

Fire discovered shortly after 5 o'clock this morning burned out the large assembly room or dance hall at the Kerhonkson fire house resulting in an estimated $25,000 to $30,000 loss.

Although the fire was described by those who first arrived at the scene as a "ball of fire" and there was considerable difficulty in getting the firefighting equipment from the building, the firemen under Chief Stanley Decker, turned their equipment on the blaze and prevented it from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Flames Are Confined

So effective was the fire fighting effort, the actual fire loss was confined to the dance hall and damage to the engine room adjoining the dance hall on the ground floor was confined to water, smoke and heat damage. The commissioners room and meeting room on the upper floor over the entrance hall and engine room suffered from water, smoke and heat damage. Damage to the basement which is used for suppers, was mostly from water and smoke.

No definite cause could be pointed to but a preliminary investigation made this morning indicated the fire had started in the dance hall portion where on Tuesday a Public Service Commission hearing was held on a water rate matter. Those first at the fire said they thought the fire started in the dance hall and may have been caused by smoking at the public hearing.

Erected in 1935

The Kerhonkson fire house was erected about 1935 and was of frame construction covered with stucco. The front portion was two stories in height and housed the engine room and the entrance to the hall with central stairway leading to the meeting room and commissioner's quarters upstairs.

Damage to the engine was held at a minimum due to the stuccoed walls which had been installed. The walls of the dance hall were of composition board and were practically burned away, the outside stucco walls however confined the blaze to the building and protected nearby buildings.

At one time the flames broke out through the cornice but quick work by the firemen in these emergencies prevented communication to other buildings.

The alarm was sounded at 5:45 a. m. shortly after smoke was observed coming from the building by a passerby who notified the

Schneider to Close Broadway Store

Jeweler Will Concentrate on His Business on Wall Street

George W. Schneider announced today his intention of discontinuing his jewelry store in the Broadway Theatre building at 597 Broadway and stated that a closing out sale will be held there on Friday and Saturday of this week and early next week.

The Broadway store is being closed in order that he may devote all of his attention to his new, modern store which was opened about two years ago at 290 Wall street.

Schneider's jewelry store in the Broadway Theatre building was opened in 1928 and has been in continuous business since. All stock in the Broadway store will be offered for sale. Fixtures in the store have already been disposed of.

In announcing his decision to discontinue the Broadway store, Schneider said he was doing so in order to give better service to all of his customers through Schneider's jewelry store on Wall street. Mrs. Dymott, who has been manager of the Broadway store since Schneider's Wall street store was opened, will be at the Wall street store and will continue to serve her customers there.

Schneider stated that since the Broadway store was opened in 1928 the business of the firm had increased until it was now impossible to supervise both stores and give adequate service on Broadway since opening the Wall street store. He expressed his appreciation to all patrons who have enabled the firm to grow and make the uptown store possible. In deference to those customers who have patronized the Broadway store, Schneider said that customer goods which has been left at the Broadway store for repair will be delivered to the customer if they find it inconvenient to call prior to the closing of the Broadway store.

State Milk Output Hits New Record

Eight Billion Pounds Is Taken; Gross Value Shows Decline

Albany, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—Milk production in New York state hit a record high of 8,708,000,000 pounds last year but the gross farm value of milk dropped $51,284,000 below the 1948 total.

The 1949 gross value of $366,955,000 compared with $418,239,000 for the previous year, the State Agriculture Department said yesterday.

The decline was attributed by the department to a drop in milk product prices.

Average production per cow was up from 6,100 pounds in 1948 to 6,450 pounds last year.

There also were more cows—1,350,000 in 1949, compared with 1,320,000 in 1948.

The department said the $366,955,000 farm value was composed of $349,202,000 in wholesale and retail sales of milk, farm-skimmed cream and home-made butter, and $17,753,000 worth of dairy products consumed in farm homes.

This was the breakdown for the 8,708,000,000 pounds of milk:

235,000,000 pounds fed to calves, 82,000,000 pounds used for farm-churned butter, 368,000,000 pounds consumed in farm homes, and 8,023,000,000 pounds sold as whole milk and farm-skimmed cream, wholesale and retail.

Young Wife Is At Bellevue; Husband Held

New York, April 26 (AP)—The frustrated would-be mother who kidnaped an incubator baby last month to fill her longings for a child was held for observation today in Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric ward.

Mrs. Evelyn Jane Jordan, 18, a Negro, was transferred from her police cell to the hospital late yesterday.

Her husband, Walter, 25, was charged as an accessory to his wife in the kidnaping.

Mrs. Jordan, a hotel chambermaid, was arrested Monday night.

The premature Negro baby, 32-day-old Chaneta Holden, was found thriving under the "foster-mother's" care.

A.N.P.A. President Hits at Sex Crimes

Moral Fibre of Nation Is Imperilled, Says E. S. Friendly

New York, April 26 (AP)—Edwin S. Friendly, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said today that increasing sex crimes "imperil the moral fibre of our nation."

"Today the sex maniac is on the rampage," Friendly said. "The depraved sex criminal has replaced the kidnapper as a threat to the peace of mind of the parents of America."

In an address prepared for a general meeting of the A.N.P.A.'s 64th annual convention, Friendly urged the newspapers of America to "help law enforcers curb these heinous crimes."

Friendly, vice president of the New York World-Telegram and Sun, said rape cases in the United States have reached an all-time high—increasing 100 per cent in the last 15 years, and 50 per cent over pre-war years.

"Most frightening of all," he asserted, "is the fact that most of the victims are children."

Papers Not Squeamish

Referring to long-standing controversy over the extent to which newspapers should report sex crimes, Friendly quoted F.B.I. Chief J. Edgar Hoover as saying newspapers should play up sex offenses to put the spotlight on offenders, but should withhold names of victims, Friendly added:

Dam, 4-Lane Roadway Proposed for Hudson River

Delhi, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—A consulting engineer proposes a dam on the Hudson river as an alternative to all future projects for watershort New York city.

The $200,000,000 project was outlined yesterday at a State Water Power and Control Commission hearing on the proposed $140,000,000 Cannonsville dam and reservoir. The hearing continues today.

The engineer, Lawrence T. Beck, a trustee of the Citizens Budget Commission of New York city, said his Hudson river proposal would include a barrage dam and two locks at Haverstraw.

The dam would support a four-lane road that could serve as a bridge for the New York state thruway, he added.

The plan also calls for aqueducts, treatment plants and pumping stations.

Beck estimated that the Hudson would yield 1,500,000,000 gallons of water a day.

New York city engineers have estimated that the Cannonsville dam would impound 97,000,000,000 gallons of water.

Beck asserted the Army Corps of Engineers, State Conservation Department officials and various engineers were enthusiastic about his plan.

He maintained the Hudson river project would be more desirable than the Cannonsville dam.

The Cannonsville reservoir, Beck contended, will be of no use to New Yorkers when plans of the interstate commission on the Delaware river basin (Incodel) are realized.

Earlier yesterday, the commission was told by Roger W. Armstrong that the Cannonsville project could be used in the Incodel program. Armstrong is chairman of the New York city board of

Labor Wins Two Tests in Taxes Vote

Five-Ballot Margin Is Record of Victory on Gasoline and Truck Levies

Illness Cuts Ranks

Conservatives, Liberals Joined to Retard Test

London, April 26, (AP)—Britain Labor government won two critical tests by a slim five-vote margin today, averting a parliamentary defeat which would have forced it to resign.

In quick succession labor twice mustered 304 votes to 299 for the combined opposition. The first vote was on the government's proposed increase in gasoline tax from nine pence (10.5 cents to a shilling and a half (21 cents,) the second supported the government's proposed 33 1/3 per cent purchase tax on trucks.

It was Prime Minister Attlee's narrowest escape so far in the new House of Commons elected February 23.

The vote came on a government proposal to double the gasoline tax from nine pence (10.5) to a shilling and a half (21 cents).

Although handicapped by illness in the ranks, government forces won through, 304 to 299, over the combined opposition of Winston Churchill's Conservatives and the Liberal party.

Has Seven-Vote Margin

Labor has at present an overall margin of seven votes in the House. Its closest shave previously came on March 11 when it beat down by 14 votes an opposition motion of censure on its plans to nationalize the steel industry.

A British prime minister defeated on any such major issue is required by this country's unwritten constitution to offer his resignation to the king.

Technically, the king then either can agree to a new national election or let a member of the opposition try to form a new government. In practice, he accepts the advice of the outgoing prime minister.

It wa sconsidered an odds-on proposition that Attlee would ask for a new election if beaten.

Government Triumphs

The government quickly triumphed again by the same vote in the day's second and final test of strength involving proposals in its 1950-51 budget for a 33 1/3 per cent purchase tax on trucks and other commercial motor vehicles.

The victory in the House coin-

Hughson Is Victim of Injuries

A charge of criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle will be held against Leandro Lopez, Jr., 19, of 122 West 99th street, New York, in the death of Roy Hughson, 40, of Big Indian who died today at the Margaretville Hospital, Trooper Ray Dunn of Phoenicia said.

Hughson suffered critical injuries about 5:50 p. m. Sunday when the door handle of the Lopez car caught his arm and threw him to the pavement on Route 28.

According to Dunn, Hughson and his wife were walking along the highway between Pine Hill and Big Indian when the accident happened. The automobile, Dunn said, continued without stopping but the driver was later apprehended.

An autopsy will be performed today by Dr. Charles A. Quinn and Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor, Coroner Ernest A. Kelly said.

Was Fined $50

Lopez was fined $50 when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Raymond C. Smith of Phoenicia. He was previously arrested on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and reckless driving.

Trooper Dunn arrested Lopez about an hour and a half after the accident when a car passed the scene minus a door handle. Dunn stopped the car and, he alleged, found that the handle which he found fit the broken stub on the Lopez car.

Hughson suffered a compound fracture of the left arm, a broken right leg and multiple lacerations of the face He received first aid at the scene and was later taken to the Margaretville Hospital.

Hughson is survived by his wife, Helen Whistell Hughson; a son, Larry Hughson; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hughson, Big Indian; and a sister, Mrs. Laura Persons, Big Indian.

Funeral services will be held from the Big Indian Methodist Church. Full military honors will be given by the Phoenicia American Legion Post. Burial will be in the Shandaken Rural Cemetery. The body is now at the Gormley Funeral Home in Phoenicia and may be viewed until 12 noon Friday.

E. E. Tucker Dies

Eliot, Me., April 26 (AP)—Elmer E. Tucker, 88, former head of a building firm which erected major plants in Lynn, Mass., and Montreal, Canada, died yesterday at his home.

Only One Supports Mayes Belief Law Needed to Halt Barking

Dogdom won a majority defense at the public hearing last night on a proposed anti-barking ordinance when only one of several persons airing their views, backed First Ward Alderman Hirschell Mayes' belief that the city needs the dog law.

A crowd estimated at 100 attended the hearing before the Laws and Rules Committee in the Common Council chamber.

They heard Alderman Mayes contend that his proposed ordinance was intended to benefit dogs, and Eugene Chilson, 181 Washington avenue, head of the Ulster County Chapter, Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, argue that the problem was one for the S.P.C.A.

Mason Makes Plea

Richard Mason, 236 Smith avenue, who said he had lived in the city for slightly more than a year, and was constantly obsessed by a variety of dog menaces, made the lone plea in support of the alderman.

Alderman Mayes said he sought the ordinance to "protect the dogs." He had found, he said, that many barked because they were not fed properly and others because they were tied up too long or housed in inadequate quarters.

Chilson, referring to the S.P.C.A., said "we are doing our best to find homes for stray dogs," and he contended that all cases in which dogs are maltreated should be reported to the S.P.C.A.

Training Is Answer

Chilson contended that it was a "simple matter" for a dog owner to stop his dog from barking through proper training.

Alderman Abram Relyea, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee, who conducted the hearing, opened it with the introduction of Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, Alderman Charles Cole, Paul Schatzel and J. Richard Smith, other members of the committee.

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer, read the proposed ordinance which would provide for a fine not to exceed $50 for violations and would make the offense disorderly conduct and the offender a disorderly person.

Mayes Loves Dogs

Alderman Mayes, explaining the proposed ordinance, said he knew of a dog which had been tied up for three years and another which was kept outside in a thin box through winter months. It barked all day and all night, he said.

"I am a dog lover," the alderman said, "I have had one all my life, but I never allowed a dog to bark all night." He cited other instances where barking dogs had

Committee Votes To Cut Ticket Tax

Washington, April 26 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to cut in half—from 20 per cent to 10—the federal excise tax on tickets to movies and sport events.

The committee took the action in approving another $240,000,000 slash in the excise tax list. This brought the total of tentatively approved cuts to $575,000,000.

This is far in excess of the $190,000,000 reduction President Truman had proposed for that part of the list which the committee has considered. Mr. Truman has threatened a veto of tax-cutting legislation if his recommendations are ignored.

Huber Declares He Blacked Out In Call to Agency

Missing Witness Phones A.P.; Also Talks to Wife; Will Testify

Washington, April 26 (AP)—A mysterious missing witness in the Owen Lattimore case turned up safe but nervous today 20 hours after he had vanished from a Washington Hotel.

John J. Huber, described as a one-time F.B.I. informer, telephoned his wife at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., at 7:30 a. m. that he had "blacked out" yesterday shortly before he had been due to appear at the Senate inquiry into charges of Communism in the government.

Although there had been hints that he might have met with foul play, Mrs. Huber said he seemed to be well. She added that he had sounded nervous, tired and upset in telling her:

"I had a blackout....I am in New York....I'll be home this evening....I can't talk now."

A short time later Huber telephoned the Associated Press, saying he was calling from a mid-

Mrs. St. George Is Giving 'Advice'

Census Leader Declares She Told Farmers to Ignore Queries

Newburgh, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—The census supervisor for this district said today that Rep. Katherine St. George (R.-N.Y.) had been advising farmer constituents not to answer census questionnaires relating to their farms.

The supervisor, Harry O. Price, said he was unable to estimate immediately the number of agricultural forms of 300 questions which had not been returned. He said only five persons in the area had refused to answer the individual census questions.

Penalty for failure to answer is $500 fine and 60 days in jail.

In a speech before a Republican group here last Saturday Mrs. St. George said the agricul-

Secretary To Be Given 350 Million

Johnson Says Soviet Atomic Explosion Brought Revaluation of Plans

Growth Expected

Defense Will Cost More in Future, Official Declares

Washington, April 26 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today recommended the 1951 military budget be increased by $350,000,000 asked by Secretary of Defense Johnson to tighten the nation's bulwarks against Russia.

Urging the additional funds, Johnson told Congress the Russian atomic explosion had come "somewhat in advance of the date we had anticipated." He said that caused a complete revaluation of defense by both the United States and the North Atlantic Pact nations.

The secretary and members of the joint chiefs of staff appeared before Senate and House Appropriations Committee to review events leading to the plea for more money.

Besides the Soviet atomic explosion, Johnson spoke of the increased strain in international relations and said:

"None of this presents a happy prospect; but the cold war is not a happy circumstance."

Hands Out Statement

Johnson testified behind closed doors but later handed out a statement covering the gist of his testimony.

Among the developments which he said brought a tightening of armaments and defenses, Johnson also mentioned:

"The fall of China, the serious situations in southeast Asia, the break in diplomatic relations with Bulgaria and deteriorating relations with other satellite countries, the Soviet assumption of control over the armed forces of Poland, Soviet naval expansion, the increased Soviet pressure in Germany, the recent attack on a naval aircraft in the Baltic, and the recent Soviet demands relative to Trieste."

The secretary said the present record peacetime defense costs probably will grow larger after the next year.

Restoration Asked

Besides the $350,000,000 in new money, the Defense Department also asked the House group to restore $203,000,000 previously trimmed by the committee from the amount asked by President Truman in his budget.

The additional money already approved brings to $14,261,127,300 the amount now in the defense budget which the House will begin debating next week.

The money will probably be added to a $29,000,000,000 one-package appropriation bill before the House.

Of the new funds, $200,000,000 would be for the air force, and $150,000,000 for the navy. All but $50,000,000 is for new plane purchases to continue beyond next year the program to build and maintain a 48-group air force.

All the air force money is in contract authority.

Of the navy's $150,000,000 total, $100,000,000 is in contract authority for plane procurement and $50,000,000 is in cash for conversion of warships and for the anti-submarine warfare program.

In the case of contract authority the actual money will be appropriated later

Keeper of the Bees

Wearing a beekeeper's mask, Dr. Hermann N. Sander blows a bee off his hand as he inspects an apiary frame for the queen in the course of farming duties at his home in the small village of Candia, N. H. Key figure in a "mercy killing" trial of international interest, the 41-year-old country doctor has had his medical license revoked by the state medical board. He has decided not to appeal the decision but to take advantage of an "implied assurance" that he can have his license back in two months. (A.P. Wirephoto)

Loss of Job Given as Motive For Double Murder, Suicide

Peru, Neb., April 26 (AP)—Associates today could offer only one motive—distress over the impending loss of his job—for the tragic behavior yesterday of an otherwise mild-mannered psychology professor who shot and killed two fellow college officials, then himself.

For 24 years Dr. Barney K. Baker, 54, had taught on the beautiful "Campus of the Thousand Oaks" at Peru State Teachers College.

Yesterday morning the new college catalog came out. It revealed publicly for the first time what Dr. Baker had known since last fall—that he was being dropped in a reorganization of the school's department of education.

The catalog, said County Attorney Fred C. Kiechel, may have been the trigger that sent the professor walking wordlessly into the offices of the college president and the head of the education department to kill them at their desks.

Slain were Dr. William L. Nicholas, 48, president of the college since 1946, and Dr. Paul A. Maxwell, 56, education department head and Dr. Baker's immediate superior.

Less than an hour later, Baker's body was found in the living room of his home at the edge of the campus. Neatly laid out were his keys, with pieces of paper to identify them, and a typewritten note with instructions for disposal of the body.

Scribbled at the bottom of the note was the apparent tipoff to the motive:

"Willie (the college president) tried to fire the wrong person."

Kiechel called it "obviously a double murder and suicide" and said there would be no inquest.

Baker's wife was visiting in Oklahoma at the time of yesterday's tragedy. There are no children.

Influenza Virus Is Cause of Epidemic Last Three Months

As of January first a new policy was established by the Ulster County Department of Health in regard to publishing of its reports. The monthly report which was issued since the organization of the department was supplanted by a quarterly report.

The first report for 1950 which includes January, February and March had just been released. Contained in the report is a review of the health conditions in the county for the first quarter, the vital statistics and other statistical data for the period.

Regarding the recent epidemic of influenza which made its appearance about the second week in March, the report states the influenza like illness spread rather rapidly throughout the county. While the acute illness is of mild to moderate severity and lasting in youth from one to two days, it remained with older people for periods of from three to four days and left adults with weakness and prostration and convalescence long in comparison with the acute stage of the illness. The illness was widespread throughout the state and studies have proven the causative agent to be the A prime influenza virus.

Whooping cough has remained endemic, to slightly epidemic in some areas since a fall and chickenpox has been scattered, reaching mild epidemic proportions in the southern portion of the county.

Reportable diseases in the county for the first quarter of the year are:

Cancer 69. Chickenpox 87. Meningitis 1. Measles 1. Mumps 3. Pertussis 59. Pneumonia 26. Poliomyelitis 1. Salmonella Infection 1. Strep sore throat including scarlet fever 8. Trichinosis 1.

Eleven cases of tuberculosis were reported during the quarter.

From January 1 to March 31, 1950, there were 310 live births in the county and 9 stillbirths.

Causes of death were: Heart disease 98. Diseases of the circulatory system 46. Vascul lesion 40. Cancer 43. Accidents 5. Nephritis 12. Diabetes 5. Tuberculosis 3. Pneumonia 9. Maternal 1 and from all other causes 21, making a total of 282.

148 New Tumor Patients

For the first three months of 1950 Dr. J. S. Taylor, director of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic, reports there have been registered in the tumor clinic 148 new patients, and 857 X-ray treatments have been given.

During the first quarter Miss Audrey Byrnes, public health nurse, joined the Division of Public Health Nursing, on January 3, and was assigned to the towns of Marbletown and Olive. She was formerly employed by the New York city Visiting Nurses Association and served in the U. S. Army Nurse Corps. Miss Mary McConnell, supervising nurse, resigned to work with the Health Department of Greenwich, Conn. Miss Helen Guttridge, public health nurse also resigned March 21, 1950. A new apprentice public health nurse was assigned on February 6, and will remain with the division until September. The Town of Lloyd has completed a new public health nursing office in the Ganse Foundation building, Miss Esther A. Schisa, director of the Ulster County Division of Public Nursing, reports.

The total nursing visits for the quarter as reported by Miss Schisa was 5,057. These were bedside and other nursing care 1,755 and all other visits 3,302.

Dental Program

Joseph B. Kearney, director of the Division of Dental Health, reports the county has established and is carrying out a successful dental program on the local level. Results of the dental examinations held throughout the county still show a high percentage of dental defects in children.

Harry F. Edinger, director of the Division of Environmental Sanitation, reports work in the first quarter of 1950 was built around routine work normally occurring during this time of year. Milk dealers' and storekeepers' milk permits were issued during January and February. During the quarter approximately 1,600 individual items of work were covered. Public water supplies in the county maintained good domestic service. Assistance in treatment was given various communities. All public water supplies have been under routine sampling schedules. Seventy-five milk dealers securing milk for 16 local pasteurizing plants and 17 plants outside the county made application for permits. Outside the routes maintained by these dealers, 304 storekeepers made application for permits to sell milk and milk products. One source of milk outside the county was not accepted.

Report on Rabies

Rabies continued endemic within the county. As a matter of securing information on the spread of rabies and its prevalence, 33 animal heads consisting of one dog, two cats, 23 foxes and nine miscellaneous wild animals were secured for examination. Of these, 19 animals, all foxes, were found to be rabid. Endemic rabies which began in the township of Wawarsing in 1947 has now involved all of the county of Ulster as indicated by the recovery of rabid animals with the exception of the extreme northeast and the extreme southeast portions. Late recovery of a rabid animal in the township of Lloyd and in the town of Kingston leads to belief that the involvement of the remainder of the county is only a matter of time.

As a matter of prevention of the spread of rabies to humans, 31 cases of dogs biting people and three cases of other domestic and wild animals biting people were investigated. Further than this, 12 dogs known to have been in contact with rabid animals are under quarantine within the county for a four-month period.

In all cases of dog bites investigated the animal was released from seven-day quarantine and no treatment of people was involved. Anti-rabic treatment was given to one person bitten by a rabid fox. One dog seriously biting a woman in the town of Kingston and too vicious to be controlled was shot by the county public health veterinarian, but examination of the head was negative for rabies.

Recommendations have been been made to the Board of Health for continued inoculation of dogs within the county. It is becoming more and more apparent as the density of rabies in wild life increases that this inoculation work alone has kept rabies from becoming endemic in dogs. Few people realize the number of people actually bitten by domestic animals and the importance of keeping rabies from these domestic animals cannot be overemphasized.

Nuisance complaints during the first quarter of the year were at a minimum, 38 being received and requiring 63 inspections or reinspections. Of this group, 10 were of public health significance and were abated.

The city of Kingston meat report shows a total of 2915 animals examined including 4 lambs, 1,158 beef and 1,753 calves. Condemned were 89 livers, 6 heads, 10 lungs, 3 tongues, 4 hearts and 1 kidney.

The Kingston plumbing inspector reports the following for the three months period:

Applications for installations in new buildings 5. Applications for installations at existing buildings 45. Preliminary inspections 79. Final inspections 40. Others 27. Complaints received and investigated 5.

Chicago (AP)—Cities don't have "veeps," but a growing number of mayors have assistants who give them a helping hand. The American Municipal Association says New York has a deputy mayor, San Francisco a chief administrative officer, Louisville a city consultant, Milwaukee an executive secretary and Cleveland and New Orleans have executive assistants to their mayors. Seattle voters recently approved a charter change that created the post of administrative assistant to the mayor.

LEGISLATORS AND PORK BARREL

When it comes to voting money for flood control and navigation projects, the Senate is a very charitable place. In fact, it is a lot more so than the House.

Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, a liberal who doesn't believe that term inescapably involves heavy spending, tried hard this year to curb the Senate's charitable impulses. But it being 1950, with elections scheduled in the fall, the senator's painstaking labors went for naught.

The Senate has approved a waterways bill appropriating $1,565,767,825 for the fiscal year starting July 1. This compares with $1,117,100,000 voted by the House. If things follow their usual course, some but not all of the funds added by the Senate will be chopped out of the bill.

This is the second time Douglas has sought to trim waterways appropriations. Last year his attack was general, but his recent economy campaign was specific. He attempted to eliminate fifty-three individual projects that are expected to cost $840,000,000.

Douglas had some constructive ideas aimed at easing the federal burden of cost. For example, he proposed that when flood control levees are built, the property owners who would benefit from the protection be asked to share the cost.

Senator Byrd of Virginia, long-time seeker after government economy, came to Douglas' aid by pointing out that many projects the Senate tossed into the bill hadn't even been approved by the President's Budget Bureau. He noted that others had won either just "qualified" endorsement or were rated definitely low priority items.

But there were no other influential recruits in the uphill fight so the outcome was no different from other years.

Many of the same senators, who in a sarcastic mood, clapped when Douglas announced he was about to give up, will now do a fast turn-around and begin yelping for economy in foreign aid funds.

"Economy for the other fellow" is clearly a well-established theme among our courageous lawmakers.

The only thing hard to grasp is that most of the men who will be singing this song expect to be taken seriously.

Should they be?

UNDERSEA FIGHTERS

Submarines have claimed more than a fair share of attention lately. Even while mystery subs were being hunted off the California coast, an American craft was making a submerged run from Hong Kong to Honolulu, a feat which is believed unequalled by any other navy and which established unquestionably the usefulness of "Snorkel" apparatus which enables a sub to breathe without surfacing. Still later the Navy announced perfection of a new small submarine designed to track down and destroy other subs under water. From these announcements visions are conjured up of weird naval operations in any future warfare, wherein surface ships are preyed on by giant undersea craft which never show more than their periscopes and breathing tubes, and which in turn are stalked and engaged by equally silent unseen killer subs.

These visions of sea warfare match those of land and air, where the new fighter planes will fly so swiftly that they can come and pass before the sound of their engines and guns can reach the watcher, and scientists toy with new explosives to the force and range of which there may be no limit.

VICTIMS OF DRINK

Who are the alcoholics? Among the men, traveling salesmen who are married make up the largest group, Dr. Robert E. Fleming, a psychiatrist in the Massachusetts Hygiene Department, said recently. Next come machinists. Married life seems to go with alcoholism. At any rate, 72.7 per cent of the men treated and 59 per cent of the women were married, one study of cases showed.

Only a confirmed stay-at-home bachelor would deduce from this that to avert alcoholism a man should stay single and avoid selling on the road. The way to avoid alcoholism is to steer clear of any degree of habit in the consumption of liquor. Who ever heard of an alcoholic who was not first a habitual drinker?

The planet Mars will be nearer the earth this year than it has been for ten years, only 44,000,000 miles away. In 1954 it will be still nearer, only 35,000,000 miles distant. It will even then be not quite near enough so that the inhabitants of the two planets can wave to each other as they pass by.

'These Days'

THE THIRD MAN

The railroad strike, whether it remains a threat or actually occurs when this article appears, is part of a doctrine sometimes called Neo-Luddism. You may recall that when steam-driven machinery was first being introduced into the cotton-spinning indusry, the Luddites smashed the machines.

It was, of course, a foolish gesture. New machines were made and the men and women learned to work at them. After a while, the machines became more important than the workers and that created social problems which have not yet been solved. In fact, they become more complicated as the machines are made to be more automatic and more productive. Smashing the machine never permanently destroyed a process any more than hiding the invention kept it away from man's use.

One of the obstacles to the recovery of Great Britain is Neo-Luddism, which means the inadequate and inefficient use of mechanical improvements and the excessive use of labor manpower. In the United States, this same industrial disease appears in many forms, such as limitations upon output; limitations upon the amount of work that each individual may do; and the enforced employment of more labor than is needed on the job.

The "stand-by" is a characteristic of this tendency. The "stand-by" does nothing but receive pay—actually, for another man's work. He is a parasite.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen are fixing for a strike for a "stand-by" on Diesel locomotives. The Diesel engine has no fire to tend. Therefore, the locomotive is handled by one engineer and one fireman, who serves as a helper for the engineer. The Diesels have done very well with this arrangement

Actually, it is suggested by railroad men that the Diesels could be handled by one man alone, and were so handled in 1934. Personally, I am happier that the engineer has a fireman helper because there are always human factors which make it safer to have a second man on the job, like a co-pilot on a plane.

But why have three men on a job that one can really do alone? That seems like too much. In 1939, the Brotherhood demanded an additional fireman. A Presidential Fact Finding Board held that there was no need for an extra fireman or an extra engineer. On June 30, 1947, the firemen renewed their demand. Again, a Fact-Finding Board was appointed and in September, 1949, they turned down the demand for an extra fireman.

This finding, the Brotherhood rejected. So prolonged negotiations were entered upon between the railroads and the Brotherhood. On March 31, 1950, the firemen announced a strike, which is about to take place. Both sides put out considerable data to establish the correctness of their position.

The most telling point made by the railroads is that the employment of an extra fireman would cost them $40,000,000 a year; the employment of an extra engineer would cost $45,300,000 a year. These sums would increase as more Diesels are put into service.

This is a bad time to increase the cost of operating the railroads because they are not doing too well. They have had a bad time since the war ended; some of them suffering heavily because of coal, steel and other strikes.

Generally, the railroads give in to the demands of the Brotherhood, because strikes are expensive, and often the Interstate Commerce Commission raises the rates to meet these labor demands. However, railroad rates cannot and should not be raised. In fact, buyers' resistance already has set in because of high rates and high taxes. If the tax came off, it might be helpful. Were railroad rates now to be raised to meet a wage demand—which this is—further resistance would set in to the advantage of buses, travel by car, and cheap forms of air travel. Nobody has to use the railroads—the firemen might think that one out.

This is straight union politics with little regard to the necessities of the industry. Other railroad brotherhoods seem not to be supporting the firemen and even firemen on such a railroad as the Santa Fe are not for this featherbedding-program.

Labor leaders continue to risk public disapproval by asking for too much at the wrong time.

That Body of Yours

PIN IN SHOULDER AND ARM

Pain in the shoulder and arm is a common ailment and the patient, thinking he has a "little arthritis", pays little attention to it. If the pain persists, or greatly increases, he consults his physician.

In most cases of shoulder and arm pain, infection—teeth, tonsils, gums, gall bladder, large intestine—is present. If the pain is worse at night, when the patient is at rest, infection is usually the cause and physician and dentist search diligently for the source. Even after the infective process is removed, it may take months before the infection itself is entirely removed from the blood.

However, while infection is the commonest cause of this pain, pressure on the nerves of shoulder and arm is the next most frequent cause. During World War I, in these cases, what is known as a cervical rib in back of neck was often found to be causing pressure. Its removal gave instant relief.

Falls or blows on the side of the head cause many cases of shoulder and arm pain. A ruptured or prolapsed intervertebral disk (cushions between bones of the spine) is sometimes found in the neck, as well as in the lower back. And just as a prolapsed disk in lower back will cause pain in the lower back and down the big nerve of upper and lower leg (sciatica) so does the prolapsed disk at back of neck cause pain in shoulder and upper arm. The individual should try to sit and stand tall always and when lying in bed have arms stretched out sideways, in line with shoulders. It has been found that men and women as they grow older, are apt to let shoulders droop forward, thus causing pressure on nerves and blood vessels. Everyday fatigue or tiredness may also cause the symptoms.

In addition to pain in shoulder and arm from pressure on nerves there are symptoms due to pressure on the blood vessels. These symptoms are tingling, numbness, coldness, burning.

Pain or other symptoms in shoulder and arm should be first examined for infection; if no infection is present, an X-ray of the spine by use of a dye should be made which will show up where the pressure exists.

The Postman Rings But Once—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Despite the hue and cry about friends of the Chinese Communists in the State Department, top-secret documents in the files of the joint chiefs of staff will reveal that major decisions on China were made, not by State Department advisers but by hard-headed generals.

The salty seadog, Admiral William Leahy; the sober military planner, General George C. Marshall, and their associates on the joint chiefs pushed the most far-reaching decision made by the United States on the Far East.

That decision, argued back and forth in the White House and the Pentagon for weeks, was to admit Soviet Russia to a partnership in Asia. Back of this were frightening military logistics and a lack of faith in the atomic bom.

The somber argument given President Roosevelt by his most trusted military advisers was, "the invasion of Japan will cost 100,000 American casualties unless a Russian attack across Manchuria pins down every Jap unit on the mainland."

Simultaneously there were skeptical reports to the joint chiefs from General Leslie Groves, chief of the Manhattan district, which said the United States could not count on the atomic bomb to achieve major damage. Such leading scientists as Dr. William Oppenheimer opposed Groves, pleaded that the new weapon could end the war, but Groves' view prevailed at the Pentagon in 1944-45.

That was why the joint chiefs were prepared to make major concessions to Russia to prevent overwhelming loss of life in the proposed invasion of Japan. In fact, they even agreed to give the U.S.S.R. railway access to Pacific, Baltic Sea and the Persian Gulf. This was much further than F.D.R. ever went at Yalta.

Decision on China

The decision that Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government was a lost cause was recommended later by General Marshall after his disillusioning experience in China.

To a closed-door session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, General Marshall explained: "American aid is not getting to the fighting forces. American recommendations are ignored. Chiang is an honest, if stubborn man, who is surrounded by independent war lords and thieves. I have seen Chiang give instructions in good faith that were never carried out down the line."

Last winter, a secret military intelligence report led to a decision not to send American military aid to Nationalist forces in Formosa. This report stated that a majority of the 6,500,000 Formosans look on Chiang and his Chinese as "carpet baggers."

Hundreds of Formosans, the report stated, were ruthlessly killed in the early months of Chinese occupation in 1945. During any battle for Formosa, the natives would be unfriendly to Chiang and sabotage his operations. Also, the report contended, the Chinese troops were in bad morale, because they wanted to return to their homes and families on the mainland.

One "if" was appended on this decision. If Chiang would voluntarily surrender authority to the Formosans, then the United States should support an independent Formosa.

Note—An unpublished report by the Truman Committee on Corruption in China was responsible for President Roosevelt's distinct coolness to Madame Chiang Kai-shek on her last visit to him. Harry Truman, then senator from Missouri, advised F.D.R. that as much as half of the American goods flown across the hump and hauled across the Burma road never reached the fighting fronts, and that one Chinese war lord was actually sending tungsten to the Japs.

Bedsheets for K.K.K.

A delegation of prominent Jewish leaders called on Attorney General McGrath the other day. Led by B'nai B'rith President Frank Goldman they presented McGrath with a copy of the Anti-Defamation League's explosive new book "A Measure of Freedom."

In the course of their talk, Goldman, who hails from Lowell, Mass., asked the attorney general, also a New Englander, to support a federal bill outlawing interstate travel of masked or hooded klansmen.

McGrath, whose religion does not make him a klan admirer, replied: "The bill makes sense to me."

Then he added, with a twinkle: "But we wouldn't want to do anything to interfere with the sale of bedsheets manufactured in New England, would we?"

Editors Hear Truman

The august American Society of Newspaper Editors, meeting in Washington last week, was warned of being investigated for "harboring Russian spies." The warning came from Washington Star editor Ben McKelway in introducing President Truman.

"It's about time we made a clean breast of the whole matter," said McKelway. "Two years ago, the society had several Russians as our guests. As a matter of fact, one of them sat in the same chair as the President. We will probably be investigated by the House Un-American Activities Committee. But Senator McCarthy will be here tonight, and I don't want to steal his thunder."

The President enjoyed the joke.

Washington Scene

A tanned and dapper White House crony sits in an old courtroom with the paint cracking from the walls and listens with straying attention to charges he lied to a Senate Committee about his bank account . . . Johnny Maragon, the onetime Kansas City Greek shoeshine boy who parlayed his friendship with Harry Truman and Harry Vaughan into big earnings, wears gold cuff links, a natty double-breasted suit, and a fancy silk tie admired by the reporters .... During the dull clashes of lawyers, Johnny plays with his fingers, stares into space with mournful eyes, or carefully watches the audience come and go. He has a poor house, nothing like the queued-up crowd Judy Coplon drew .... At intermissions, Maragon makes a point of stopping by the press table to put his arm around reporters he met casually at the White House.

Joe Dickmon's Case puts Spotlight on Some Political Figures; and Not to Advantage

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 26—Millions of words have been spoken in Congress and on the stump about "civil rights," and yet, when the case of Joe Dickmon is considered, one wonders if it isn't after all in some of its aspects just a 'phony' issue which merely emphasizes the hypocrisy of politicians.

For Joe Dickmon has lost not only his civil rights—his right to speak and his right to work—but he has been punished for trying to exercise them.

Joe Dickmon is a navy veteran with a wife and child. He wanted to work five days a week instead of three at the only trade he knows—coaling mining. But he made the mistake of trying to express himself in supposedly free America—he called John Lewis a "dictator."

Promptly the totalitarianism of the American labor-union movement—the "closed shop"—closed in on Dickmon and he was suspended from the union and immediately the employer was compelled, of course, to dismiss him from his job. He has been out of work three months. For in free America under the totalitarian "closed shop," or "union shop," the union dictates that anyone who isn't "in good standing" in a union can be ordered fired from his job.

Once a union member offends a union officer, he can be expelled from the union. He holds his job not because of the quality of the work he does but because of his willingness to bootlick his union officers.

With his wife and child hungry, Dickmon decided to apologize and retract what he had said. He is hoping now that the union will give him work. He has despaired of getting work any other way. He has learned that in free America the real government is the labor union's government.

For nobody in Congress took up the cause of Joe Dickmon. Nobody demanded an investigation of totalitarian methods in American unions and put on a filibuster till he got action. Nobody told the "Voice of America" to soft-pedal its proud broadcasts to Russia about how free the American workingman is—and nobody in the Truman administration, which boasts of a deep interest in the "little man," stopped for a moment to give Dickmon a word of sympathy, must less the benefit of an investigation by the Department of Justice or F.B.I. such as occurs when Negroes are 'lynched' in the South. None of the so-called liberal organizations active in promoting civil rights took up Dickmon's plight.

Why wasn't something done about it? There is, of course, on the part of the administration no liking for the Lewis leadership in the coal-mining unions but to act in this case meant acting in scores of other cases of intimidation and coercion in other labor unions separate from coal mining. It meant alienating the votes and the campaign money of those big labor unions which are the chief support of the Democratic party in the north today.

The National Labor Relations Board is supposed to inquire into cases of coercion of individual workers by unions, but there is no evidence that the N.L.R.B. ever interested itself in the case of Joe Dickmon. If it did, where would he get the money to pay lawyers' fees?

There was a time when the American Civil Liberties Union, a fine organization, interested itself in cases of this kind and raised money for defense and to take care of a defendant who had been the victim of injustice. But apparently nobody took care of Joe Dickmon, so he decided to bow his knee and beg for work at the only place where he had found he could perhaps get his job back. Says the Washington Evening Star in an editorial:

"We hear a great deal these days about the dignity of the human being. Our public men, our church leaders, our educators work themselves into a state of indignation when some poor soul is dragged before an Iron Curtain court and forced to confess sins he never committed so that his family can eat and survive. But here in the United States, in this 'free' land, a young man who has fought for his country can be forced to recant a wholly truthful statement as the price of being permitted to work, and it is passed by with a few paragraphs in the newspapers.

"If this can happen to Joe Dickmon, it can happen to any one of his fellow miners. Why is it that the articulate friends of the common man remain silent?"

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Many valuable items would be lost if it weren't for men like Robert Matthews. He just happened to be in time to salvage a few odds and ends when someone was breaking up housekeeping. One is a postal card taken by Sibley Photographers of Rondout, New York, showing the "Deyo Stage, Rifton to Rondout" parked on the Strand. It was a large open wagon, big wooden wheels, horse drawn. It was taking off from the Strand. There are other horses and wagons, dirt, muddy road, and clothes on those passing by seem to be of the 1890 era. The is also a photo of the famous little "Eddyville Yacht," the Charles A. Schultz.

In the 1890's it seemed to be the style to have adorable little dance programs, with a colorful cover and tied with ribbon. This one reads: "You are cordially invited to attend a Masquerade Ball, given by the Kingston City Drum, Fife and Bugle Corps, at Liscomb's Opera House, on Wednesday evening, February 16th, 1898. Gents' tickets 35 cents. Ladies' tickets 15 cents. C. W. Tronson, president. W. Lascomb, secretary. Music was by the Peckham Orchestra. The first page lists 15 dances, starting off with the Grand March with music by Kingston City Drum Corps. Then such dances as lanciers, waltz, quadrille, schottische, varsouvienne, polka are mentioned. Second page lists 15 more dances and at end of page it say "Good morning." No doubt one had to be a good dancer in those days. Today you can one-step to most anything. It would be interesting to watch 15 different dances such as the quadrille, schottische and lanciers, don't you think Another dance program, in bright pink with a golden fireman blowing a horn on the cover. The Annual Ball was held at the Lascomb Opera House (now Orpheum Theatre) Tuesday evening, January 22nd, 1889. Music by Murray's full orchestra. They had 34 dances before "Home, Sweet Home" was printed at the bottom of the second page. Many of the dances were dedicated like "Quadrille to First Assistant Riffenbury" or "Heel and Toe Polka, to our Treasurer." The Union Hose Co No 4 put out a colorful dance booklet, with cover of several colors showing the old time fireman. It was called "The Grand Fireman's Hope" and was held at the Academy of Music, on Friday, October 21st, 1892. Music was by Goetler's full orchestra.

A Grand March started all the balls. At the Union Hose affair after the 17th dance they had intermission. The second part they began with a promenade. There was class in those days. They didn't herd the dancers every which way like they do now. The music starts, the dancers just squeeze in anywhere. I would like to see all large affairs at the Armory start off with a Grand March, with the officials leading. I think it was the Grand Commandery, a Masonic affair, many years ago, which started with a Grand March. Who remembers? Of course, now they have entertainment, then the dancing was entertaining. How times have changed.

The Victoria Cross was instituted in 1856.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

Take a Letter, Helen

Dear Frigidaire Corporation:

Along with several million other galoots, I caught your television show a few Sundays back—the one MC'd by Bob Hope—and I'd like to register a bantam beef about the six (or was it 60?) commercials which kept getting in the way of the entertainment.

Now, I grant you that you're entitled to a few plugs for the $135,000 you spent on this 90-minute whooptydo, but I think somebody ought to tell you there's a big difference between the plug and the plug-ugly—and seeing as how I have nothing but time at the moment, it might as well be me.

From where I oohed and ogled, it seemed as if every time your show got going, it was interrupted by a run-of-the-larynx announcer who went into a windy spiel about refrigerators. And the the end result was the opposite of what you were after—I found myself wondering whether a manufacturer who couldn't put together a good show might not have trouble putting together a good icebox.

Of course, I know better—the Frigidaire label is plastered all over my kitchen—but my point is that a lot of listeners may not know better.

And don' tell me you only did what sponsors have been getting away with on radio for 20 years. There's a solar system of difference between a broadcast and a telecast — one is "now-you-hear-it-now-you-don't" stuff, the other is direct competition with the theatre and movies. How big a hit do you think "Gone With the Wind" would have been if Scarlet O'Hara had turned her back on Clark Gable six times during the picture and plugged a mouthwash? How big do you think "South Pacific" would be if Ezio Pinza stepped to the footlights at the end of each scene and delivered a pep talk about a certain hogwash?

From where I ponder, no television show should have more than three commercials, one before the entertainment begins, one during a station break, and one at the sign-off. And what's more, they should be staged and integrated by the director of the show and presented with gaiety rather than gush.

In other words, gentlemen, stop sticking your thumb in the audience's eye. It's my hunch you'll sell more merchandise scratching its back.

Sincerely
B. R.

Dear Bob Hope:

According to the trade papers, you were not only paid $40,000 for your appearance on Frigidaire's Easter telecast, but you also have a contract to do four additional programs for the same kind of take-home money.

Well, more power to you, sez I, but I'd like to ask one carping question: Do you honestly feel that you—a guy with only one head—are actually worth $26,666.67 an hour?

Now don't give me the glove in the face, Roberto—I'm not saying you aren't good. But you and I know each other from way back and I think you'll agree that neither you nor anyone else is $40,000 good—even though this bumptious baby of an industry has momentarily lost its sense of proportion and is offering that kind of cabbage.

Why, you ask, should one umbrella hustler blow the whistle on another umbrella hustler? For two very good reasons, chum: (a) in your tax bracket, the Treasury Department is going to put the snatch on virtually the entire 40 grand, and (b) your super-salary figures do both you and TV nothing but a lot of harm.

Let's see if I can't blueprint it for you.

To get out of its swaddling clothes, video must present the top performers of the theatre and movies — talent like yourself. However, by insisting on so fat and fabulous a fee you're making it impossible for less reckless sponsors to buy the Al Jolsons, Danny Kayes and Bing Crosbys—gents every bit as talented as you are. These performers are a cinch to demand the same kind of money —you know actors, and you know they'd lose face if they showed theirs for less.

As I see it, the unexpendable dough Frigidaire is paying you has set a precedent which can easily hold television back a couple of years, and since show business has been plenty good to you why wouldn't it be a good idea to return the compliment by making one heck of a gesture—that is, to kick back 35 grand of your first pay check and agree to appear on the four shows coming up for five grand per each?

Money-wise, Bob, it would take darn little out of your pocket; publicity-wise, it would cop plenty of headlines, and audience-wise, it would help bring a lot of better entertainment into a lot of parlors.

Sincerely
B. R.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, April 25—Chapter A.,P.E.O. entertained the B.I.L.'s at a supper party Thursday evening at the home of the president, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. Herbert Campbell. Following the supper Mr. and Mrs. William Plank, Marlborough, told of their European trip taken last fall. They compared the traveling, when Mr. Plank entered Europe during the first World War, and subsequent trips by boat, to the travel on a four story plane in a matter of hours. Mrs. Plank touched on the lighter events of their trip and the countries, England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Spain. The Sisterhood held a short business meeting when they voted a contribution to the cancer fund. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Myron Hazen, Walter R. Clarke, Miss Lulu Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. William Coy, the Rev. and Mrs. Oscar Jelsma, Mr and Mrs. William Lais, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Lent, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tompkins, Assemblyman and Mrs. John F. Wadlin, Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail, Mrs. Nathan D. Williams, Mrs. Franklin Welker, Mrs. C W. Rathgeb, Mrs. Louis Smith, Mrs. Rose Seaman, Mrs. D. H. Starr, Mrs Gordon E. Wilcox, Mrs. Edward Dalby, Misses Emily Lent, Eliza Raymond, Laura Harcourt, Edna Curry, Mr and Mrs. George DuBois, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Medford Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. Plank, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell

Mrs. Jesse Alexander spent the week-end in Flushing.

The Highland Council of Church Women held its spring quarterly meeting at the Presbyterian manse last week with the president and hostess conducting the devotions which centered about the theme, Tomorrow Is Today. The local group welcomed from Clintondale Mrs. Marlin Dawson, Mrs. Donald McNicholas, Mrs. Fred A. Smith, Mrs. Charles Bartlett, Mrs. Ralph Van Sielen. They represented the Friends Church, while the Methodist Church there were busy with their annual church supper. Representatives from both of these churches will cooperate to make the Spring Fellowship luncheon May 4, an outstanding success. Plans for providing the desert or money were made. The page of the Ecumenical register has arrived for the names of women of this area who wish to 'stand and be counted' among the first million of Protestant women enrolled by the United Council of Church Women in 1950. A fee of one dollar is to accompany the enrollment to show interest in unity of spirit and in the four-fold program of Christian work included in the aim of the United Council. The nominating committee, Mrs. Philip Wilklow, Mrs. Stanley Jones, Mrs. Albert Thompson presented the list of new officers: President, Mrs. Gordon Wilcox; vice-president, Mrs. Louis E. Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. Peter Burdash; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Fordyce Post; treasurer, Mrs. Albert Thompson. Their term of offices begins after the spring luncheon. A profitable discussion of worthwhile community activities was had, showing the awareness of the council, to local opportunities. There were 17 church women present.

At a special meeting of the Lloyd Town Board Wednesday night it was voted to purchase an International truck from the Millis garage, Poughkeepsie, for $6,325, with the town retaining the Mack truck now in use. In all 13 bids were received. Justice Lester was the only member absent. At this same meeting it was voted to have gravel spread on the roadway leading to the parking lot in the rear of the Legion home. Although the lot is small it is relieving somewhat the parking congestion of the streets.

At the meeting of North River Presbyterial Thursday in Cornwall Mrs. Andrew Wright Lent, who is presbyterial secretary for National Missions, was presented with an honorary membership in the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schmidt and daughter have returned from a winter spent in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where they purchased a home. They are now occupying the bungalow on 9W which they purchased from Mr. Schmidt's parents. The son, John Gordon Schmidt, remained in the south to complete his school year.

Mr and Mrs. Bruff Olin were tendered a surprise supper party last week on their wedding anniversary, when they were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thompson. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Mr. and Mrs Walter R. Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. A Jerome Pratt, Mrs. Esther Hudson, Miss Frances Fagan.

Mrs. Philip Bravata was re-elected president of the Highland P.-T.A. at the meeting Tuesday night in the activity room of the central school. This will be her second term. Miss Eileen Germiller, vice-president; Mrs. Charles Baker, secretary; Mrs. Benjamin Johnson, treasurer. Miss Helen Lucy reported for the nominating committee of Mrs. Edison Dimsey, Mrs A. Herbert Campbell, Mrs. Louis Di-Stasi, Mrs. Vincent Lyons. The installation will take place at the meeting May 17 with past president, Mrs. Gladys Mears as installing officer. Says There's Cure For Mental Illness

Mental illness can be cured, the same as tuberculosis or a broken bone can be cured, Dr. Edward F. Shea, chairman of the Ulster County Mental Health Committee, told members of the Kingston Lions Club Tuesday noon.

Speaking in a program to mark mental health week, Dr. Shea said that one of today's biggest problems in that field is to educate the public away from the idea that mental illness is a disgrace.

Dr. Shea complimented the Lions Club for its interest in matters affecting the public welfare, and thanked them for their contribution to the Ulster County Tumor Clinic Foundation in memory of the late Louis B Steketee, a Lions Club member. Dr. Shea was introduced to the club by Dr Henry Lambert Bibby.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Put Yourself In Partner's Place

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

We are told that one of the hardest things in the world is to see yourself through somebody else's eyes. This is true at the bridge table also. It is very hard to play a hand as though you were Bill Jones instead of yourself.

South knew that his partner's bid of four diamonds showed the ace of that suit. He was also pretty sure that his partner would not have bothered to show an ace if his original raise of two hearts had been a "stretch." So South counted on his partner to show up with the king of hearts and the ace of diamonds Little else was necessary to give him a good play for a grand slam.

West opened the king of spades, and South ruffed. Declarer looked over the dummy carefully and saw that if each opponent had two trumps, the hand would be easy. He could draw trumps, leaving one trump still in dummy. Then he could take the clubs, discarding two diamonds from dummy. Eventually dummy's last trump could be used to trump South's third diamond.

After some thought he saw that he could make the contract against a 3-1 trump break if he simply imagined that his partner were playing the hand. In other words, he would not try to trump his own losing diamond in dummy. Instead he would try to ruff all of dummy's losing spades in his own hand.

At the second trick, therefore, South led a low trump to dummy's eight. He returned a spade from dummy and ruffed with the jack. He next led another low trump to dummy's ten, noting that a trump was still out against him

Declarer continued by leading dummy's third spade and ruffing with the queen of hearts. South got to dummy again with a low club of the jack and ruffed out dummy's last spade with the ace of hearts.

Now South could lead a diamond to dummy's ace and draw West's last trump with dummy's king. By this time South was out of trumps himself, so he could discard his losing diamond on dummy's last trump!

After this remarkable trick, South took the rest with his king of diamonds and top clubs. He had made the grand slam by what experts call a "dummy reversal" —or by imagining that his partner was playing the hand.

The Mothers' Club of School No. 2 held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, April 18 at 2 o'clock at the school.

Dr. Henry L. Bibby, the guest speaker, gave an interesting and enlightening talk on the "Psychological Development of the Child." He emphasized environment and training at a very early age and also the effect of the temperament of the parent on the child's general health and habits.

An illuminating discussion period followed the address.

Reports also were given by members of the club on various meetings they had attended during the month.

Tentative plans for the graduating class were among the topics discussed.

The club looks forward to a large attendance next month when new officers will be elected.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Arthur Theile and Mrs. Harry M. Kingsburg, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Chemical Protects Mice

Washington (AP)—Three Belgian scientists report that use of a poisonous chemical—sodium cyanide—has afforded high protection to mice against deadly doses of radiation. They used X-rays in their tests, but anything that would be true of X-rays would hold for "rays" from an atomic bomb. The Belgians offered no statement as to whether cyanide might offer possibilities for humans but a Washington scientist said he believed it would be out of the question for human use. He declined to be quoted by name. He said the Belgian work added another block to the structure of knowledge that is slowly being built up towards understanding the true nature of how radiation affects the living body.

News Writers Endorse Drive for Jewish State

The crucial role of the United Jewish Appeal's current campaign in determining the future of Israel's newcomers, and of hundreds of thousands of homeless Jews in other countries, was emphasized this week by two top-flight newspapermen just returned from Israel. Both Ralph McGill, nationally known editor of the Atlanta Constitution, and Bob Considine, outstanding International News Service correspondent, stressed the importance of U.J.A. in special articles describing their visits to the Jewish State.

Considine, in his nationally syndicated daily column "On the Line," declared on his return from Israel that "The stupendous response of U. S. Jewish and Christian supporters of the United Jewish Appeal has no counterpart in the annals of man."

Observing that Israel has increased its population in the past two years "by more than 370,000 persons, immigrants from more than 20 countries speaking as many languages," McGill reported that "hope is high" concerning the outcome of the current United Jewish Appeal drive.

N. B. Gross, local chairman for the United Jewish Appeal, urges everyone to make some contribution to the fund during the campaign which is now going on.

Who Is Being Fooled?

By FRANK TRIPP

A phase of the hullabaloo about Commies in our midst which the average man can't understand is why anybody, anywhere, in office or out, should be unwilling to take or retake an oath of allegiance to his country.

The people suspect those who do object, no matter how they clothe their objections.

The public is bewildered too by political antics which delay or discredit efforts to keep Reds in their place. They suspect the motives behind coddling of those with doubtful backgrounds and pink leanings, though the man has reformed They rejoice at repentant sinners but most people believe that national safety demands that such a one does not hold power in public life

They are out of patience with that broad and presently dangerous concept of democracy which puts personal rights, personal liberties, freedom to think and speak as one pleases, above the welfare of the nation.

They grant these rights to individuals and would be the first to defend every constitutional liberty, but they want forthright, undoubted, uncompromising Americans in positions which involve the future of their children and the security of their homes and possessions.

THEY ARE NOT concerned whether a suspect is a Republican or Democrat, Gentile or Jew, black or white. They are concerned if he is red or pink If he is, they want him out in the open rather than in places of trust with access to secrets which may determine whether or not America can endure against foes who would destroy us.

They have seen too much of politics to reject an accused at the first word of suspicion. They no more condemn at first blast; are more lenient and fair

They have seen the disloyalty device used cruelly. Likewise they have seen the lengths to which politicians will go to justify acts of their appointees and associates; to whitewash deeds which could discredit a political hierarchy. Their trust in professional politics is well nigh wrecked

They have become seared and hardened to the "smear" system. Its effect upon their intelligence ended when, at first indication of disagreement with powers that be men were dragged through the mire, hung upon scaffold of public ridicule and left to die politically in public disrepute

The people long since came to ignore the title "honorable" as indiscriminately applied to higher officeholders. They no longer accept it as a guarantee of purity. They have learned that a majority of votes, a robe or a crown do not automatically make a knave honorable

They are looking today upon public officials as servants whom they hire and pay, yet control little Their once universal respect disappeared when they saw incompetent, unqualified and sometimes unworthy men thrust into power through party preferment, personal friendship or to pay a political debt.

SUCH OF THE PUBLIC as has thought these thing through became doubly alarmed when they saw their neighbors duped by socialized schemes which buy their votes and entrench a system which in practical effect destroys the principle of an honest election; and nullifies, through subtle prostitution of the ballot, the wish of the responsible and sustaining segment of the electorate.

They almost gave up when they found that this system of economic suicide is not confined to any political party—that in shameful degree it is becoming a necessary gadget to almost anyone who hopes to succeed at the polls.

Yet all of the people are not being fooled to the extent that their "peers" believe They may never overcome the horde of votes which these cunning tactics have corralled among the gullible. Those who gain and hold office, high or low, may ever be content to accept election on any terms available—just so's they get in.

If so, God help America.

BUT THERE IS one inescapable thing for which such men must ultimately answer. They must honestly, vigorously and nonpartisanly protect our country and government against foreign agents and sympathizers, alien reds and native pinks; or their lofty jobs and titles and their secure stall at the public trough will go the way of our destroyed economy.

And in the memory of such loyal Americans as are permitted to survive—then in history that will be written—their names will wallow with that of Benedict Arnold.

CAUSE AND EFFECT?—Berlin Reds announced plans for a monster parade of "Free Youth" on May 28, threatening to march through the Western sector and "capture" Western Berlin. After U. S. forces went through some riot practice like that pictured above, the Communist march was suddenly called off without explanation. Picture shows members of the 16th U. S. Infantry acting as "Communist rioters" while U. S. Constabulary troops, with bared bayonets, show how they would handle such a situation.

Use Sewer Water

Santa Ana, Calif. (AP)—The Orange County Water District is experimenting with the use of reclaimed water for irrigating bean lands. Two 20-acre bean tracts near a sewer treatment plant are being irrigated for five hours daily. If county health and agriculture officials agree the test is successful, waste water may be used to help alleviate California's water shortage.

If You've Earned It—Don't Hesitate!

Among the nicer things available for men and women to enjoy as they pass through this life is, undeniably, a Cadillac car.

People who own Cadillacs are almost unanimous in their testimony that their cars give them constant pleasure and enjoyment—enriching many aspects of their lives to an almost unbelievable degree.

Yet—there are countless people who have every right to be enjoying a Cadillac—but who, for one reason or another, are denying themselves the pleasure.

If this is happening to you, we think the following paragraphs may help you to your rightful enjoyment of this wonderful motor car.

If you are hesitating to purchase a Cadillac because of cost—please remember that the lowest-priced Cadillac actually costs less than certain models of numerous other makes of cars!

If you are concerned about operating expense—remember that three 1950 Cadillacs recently averaged better than twenty-two miles to the gallon in an official 751-mile test!

If you are wondering about the cost of upkeep—draw your own conclusions from the fact that the lifespan of a Cadillac has never been fully measured. Numerous individual Cadillacs, about which we have learned, have now passed half a million miles in service—and are still reported going strong.

If you are afraid your friends might think you ostentatious if you were to buy a Cadillac—please be assured that our owners have not found this to be the case.

Yes, if you have earned it, there is every reason why you ought to be driving a Cadillac—every practical reason, as well as every personal one.

This would be a wonderful year to make the move—for never before were Cadillac cars so beautiful—so luxurious—so utterly thrilling to own and drive.

Better come in and see us. We think you'd be surprised and delighted at how easy it has now become to enjoy a Cadillac.

Clouds Are Sprayed

Liberty, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—A steady drizzle fell on New York city's watershed today after an official rain-maker team began spraying clouds with silver-iodide smoke. A generator set up at Stroudsburg, Pa., started spewing the smoke skyward last night. The drizzle of rain began falling over the watershed at 7 a. m. (E.S.T.) today. It was not certain whether the fall was induced by cloud-seeding or by nature. The rain-making operations are being carried out with the hope of filling the city's reservoirs, far below normal for this time of the year.

telephone company and a alarm was sent in.

Equipment Is Removed

The 1942 Chevrolet auxiliary pumper and the 1933 Sanford pumper were both removed from the building with difficulty when the firemen arrived due to the extreme heat and smoke. Once outside the building they were put into operation.

Mutual aid was notified and the Accord fire department responded with its pumper A 2½ inch line was laid by the Accord firemen and two 1½ inch lines were attached and made ready for use.

Firemen Are Commended

Residents of the village later stated the firemen did excellent work in confining the fire to the dance hall and preventing its spread to other buildings

Coroner Arthur Chipp, who was one of the first firemen to reach the fire, said the blaze had a good start and the dance hall is about 60 by 30 and is practically ruined, the floor is ruined and the timbers charred.

Adjoining the fire house to the right is the Abram Berebaum delicatessen store and to the left in the Arthur D Decker building which houses the post office, liquor store, Decker's residence, the E. C Brunner electrical store and apartments on the upper floor. Residents were prepared to vacate their homes but the fire was brought under control and they were not required to leave their homes

It was later reported the engine room had not been badly damaged and it would be possible to use the engine rooms for storing the equipment

Boys Club Guests of Moose

Youngsters Dine, Enjoy Social at Local Lodge 970

It was Juvenile Night at Kingston Lodge, 970, Tuesday, when members of the Loyal Order of Moose stole a march on Father Time and reverted to their tender years as they mingled with members of the Kingston Boys Club.

The youngsters were guests of the Moose and enjoyed a supper, television, movies and community singing. And, the committee on arrangements seemed as thrilled as the little fellows, whose ages ranged from 7 to 16 years.

Alexander "Pop" Fuhrman, director of the Boys Club, and 50 of its members were welcomed by Moose Governor Raymond Avery at 7 o'clock, and there wasn't a dull moment throughout the program which lasted until 9:30.

"We'd like to remain longer," Fuhrman remarked in his remarks of appreciation for the evening's fun, "but my fellows have to go to school and it's past their bedtime."

It was the consensus of the Moose that their guests were little gentlemen, and Governor Avery complimented Director Fuhrman for his leadership, also Kenneth Hotaling, Jr., president of the club.

Upon arrival, the boys assembled in the television room. While they enjoyed the program there, one of their members, Jerry Krom and a detail from the Moose put the finishing touches on the supper in the lodge kitchen.

Then the youngsters marched to the dining hall where they sat at neatly arranged tables for the meal Full plates was the order, and there were seconds for the fellows with good appetites.

Next came musical and vocal entertainment by Jack Carter, a Moose, and his partner Joe Brophy, the Cedar Rest comedy duo. The youngsters applauded and applauded as they listened to novelty and popular songs.

They welcomed an invitation to join in and gathered around the music-makers for community singing. The hall rang with young and happy voices. Some of the little guests shook off their bashful attitude after a bit of coaxing by Jack Carter and Elmer Williams, and there were solos galore. The quartet sang too and did very well.

Then everybody took places to watch movies of big game hunting on the North American continent and in Africa. This feature, furnished by Al Stewart of the Moose, was very popular with the boys.

At 9 o'clock, the youngsters bowed their heads for the Moose toast to the children at Mooseheart, the national home of the order where some 700 boys and girls are cared for by the organization.

As a light went on above the picture of a child kneeling in prayer at his bedside, Governor Avery recited the brief ritual which includes the quotation from the Bible: "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

One of the chief projects of the Moose is child welfare, and each lodge in the nation is obligated to participate.

Last year Kingston Lodge won a citation for its program, which it plans to elaborate on in 1950

Wednesday's party was instigated by Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly in whose honor the local Moose are preparing a class for initiation on May 21.

Members of the lodge on last night's committee besides those mentioned were Patrolman Walter Fitzgerald, Zeke Boss, Edward Cline, Joseph Myers, Bert Sprny, Ted Hudela, Al Oehner, Ike Lawrence and George Planthaber.

Director "Pop Fuhrman complimented the Moose on being the first fraternal organization to invite the Boys Club to their lodge to make them feel at home.

It is the intention of the Moose to turn their lodge room over to the Boys Club once or twice a week so that the youngsters may enjoy carrying on their program in more spacious quarters than their own little club on Greenkill avenue.

However, with four lines of hose and using water from the lake 1,400 feet away, they saved three nearby buildings. There also was danger of the fire spreading to the group of cottages along the Continental Road.

Ellenville's Board of Trustees has advertised for bids for the position of caretaker at Lake Maratanza and Sam's Point Bids will be opened April 27 at 8 p. m. Bidder must occupy the dwelling house on the premises from May 25 to November 1 There are numerous other stipulations. Ellenville taxpayers who were rejoicing at the coming of balmy weather and the thought that winter's woe's were well on the way out for another year had their joy turned to ashes when they read the budget for 1950-51 presented by the village board this week. Taking advantage of the new state law which permits figuring budget limitations on true instead of assessed valuation, the Village Fathers have submitted a tentative budget calling for $132,105, of which amount $95,127.18 must be raised by tax on village property. Last year the sum to be raised by taxation was $68,504.58. This would appear to give an increase of better than one-third. The village clerk is quoted as saying that under the proposed budget the rate this year will be $27.2194 per thousand of assessed valuation as against a rate last year of $19.845. A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at the muncipal building Thursday, April 27, at 8 o'clock.

State Public Housing Set Record, Stichman Says

New York, April 26—Homes for New York State's low income families were completed at the rate of 17 every working day during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1950, State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stichman reported today in a review of "one of the most productive years of achievement under Governor Thomas E. Dewey's state-wide housing and community development program."

Commissioner Stichman cited a record-breaking $58,826,200 in State development loan funds committed during the past fiscal year for 12 new projects, and additional loans to three other projects already under construction, as evidence of the continuing need for local aid under the State's program.

During the same 12-month period, the Commissioner announced that 4,221 new low rent apartments became available for occupancy in State-aided projects, bringing the total to date of occupied units to 17,149 in the State's program. An additional 12,212 State-aided low rent units are presently under construction, all of which are expected to be completed before the end of the current fiscal period Another 7,145 units are planned to be put under construction this year, in addition to many more thousands of units that are expected to be put under State contracts with municipalities for future construction.

Commissioner Stichman prophesied even greater progress during the current fiscal year than in the one concluded last month. This year, he said, approximately $71,500,000 in State development loan funds can be committed for more than 6,000 low rent apartments in addition to substantial slum clearance. This greater amount is made possible by a change in the law advocated by Governor Dewey and Commissioner Stichman and approved by the people at last November's election At the accelerated rate, the State will be able to commit the same amount in each of the next four years before exhausting its total of $535,000,000 in capital loan funds.

water supply's consulting engineers.

Representatives of industries in Delaware county and residents of the area have opposed the Cannonsville proposal. They claim it would cause real estate values to decline

A Delaware county farmer told the State Water Control Commission Tuesday that New York city could cut water consumption 200,000,000 gallons daily, if meters were installed

John L. Lewis, who runs a 1,000-acre farm in the town of Tompkins, spoke in opposition to the proposed $130,000,000 Cannonsville dam and reservoir project Lewis voiced his objections at a public hearing conducted by the commission

He said he had obtained reports from the New York City Bureau of Budget that showed water consumption could be cut if the city installed water meters New York now charges a flat rate to most consumers

Lewis contended that installation of meters would be cheaper than the Cannonsville project He estimated the cost of installing meters at $30,000,000.

20th Century Club Elects Mrs. Deegan As Its President

Mrs. Joseph Deegan was unanimously elected president of the Twentieth Century Club Monday at a meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. William Eltinge, 105 St. James street.

Other officers unanimously chosen were Mrs. Herman Schwenk, vice-president; Mrs. D. F. Wells, secretary, Mrs. Eltinge, treasurer.

Mrs. R. H. Woodard, Mrs. Deegan and Mrs. R. P. Baylor were elected as delegates to the third district convention of New York State Women's Clubs to be held May 11 at Ravena, and Miss Alice Scardefield was endorsed as a candidate for the office of Third District director. She is a member of the club.

It was announced that the annual Spring Banquet of the club would be held at Lehorb's restaurant Tuesday, May 16.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Herbert Rhodes and Mrs. William Eltinge presented topics.

Discussing "Proofreading as a Profession," Mrs. Rhodes said proofreading was the art of correcting printed matter destined for the printing press before it was returned to the author for checking.

In the 17th and 18th centuries, proofreading was done by friends of the authors, she said. Colleges posted proofs on bulletin boards so that everyone interested might make a correction. Scholars and men of letters, among them Oliver Goldsmith and Samuel Johnson often did this work, she said.

A proofreader must like to read, be a good speller, be quick to grasp the meaning of a written passage, and have a photographic memory, she said. A good proofreader should have a reservoir of knowledge to draw from, especially in publishing houses where work is done on textbooks and religious books as well as fiction. A knowledge of languages, history, literature, mathematics, and the Bible is an asset, she said. She continued by describing the technique of proofreading.

Mrs. Eltinge, discussing the organ, described it as the most beautiful and versatile of all musical instruments, the only one with the power of imitating the tones of other instruments.

The first organ is believed to have been made about 200 B.C., Mrs. Eltinge said, and was a very primitive type. The early organs had large keys which were struck by the fist.

In 1480 an organ was made with tones adapted to a choir, and the first bellows for wind was invented in the 17th century. She described the gradual improvements to the instrument, up to the present-day electric organ with its intricate foot pedals, manuals and keyboards.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

UNINTENTIONALLY "STOLEN"

A reader's absent-mindedness has placed her in this quite obviously uncomfortable position: "At a large party about a month ago I inadvertently picked up a cigarette lighter belonging to one of the women and walked off with it. I didn't discover it in my bag for a day or so and then telephoned the hostess. She said none of the guests (many of whom were strangers to me) had reported the loss and that she'd let me know as soon as one did. I feel terribly about keeping this lighter which certainly does not belong to me. Should I send it to the hostess, or what am I supposed to do with it?"

If it is valuable you should, of course, make every effort you can to find the owner of the lighter who very possibly doesn't realize where she lost it. For example, you could telephone those who were sitting near you and, describing the lighter, ask if they had lost it, or if they know to whom it belongs.

Unrelated Questions

Dear Mrs. Post: Please answer these unrelated questions for us: (1) In going upstairs, does the lady or gentleman go first? (2) At the table, is the convex or the concave side of the fork held up in carrying food to the mouth with the left hand? (3) In sending the plate down the table for a second helping, are the knife and fork left on the plate or not? (4) What is the correct way to eat a soft-boiled egg if it is served in the shell?

Answer (1) Lady (2) Prongs down (3) They are left on the plate close together at one side of the plate but not so near the rim as to endanger their falling off (4) You either eat it American fashion by breaking it into an egg cup or European fashion by breaking away the top of the shell and eating it from the shell itself with a small spoon.

Only Son at Funeral

Dear Mrs. Post. Who should the only son (grown and with a family) walk with in the funeral procession of his mother? Should it be with his father or his wife, or one of his sisters?

Answer: He should walk with his wife, and one of his sisters with their father—unless there is an especial reason why the father prefers the support of his son.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. One of her leaflets, E-26, "Cocktail Parties," gives suggestions for the invitation, and what to serve. A.N.P.A. President

"The newspapers of the nation have never been squeamish in reporting the news—in putting the honest facts before the public. They cannot afford to hedge in this grave matter.

"Let us back up tough legislation and undiminished policing with forthright and courageous journalism to help eliminate the serious menace of the sex criminal."

Friendly told the publishers, meeting on the second day of their three-day convention, that a vital question facing the American press is how to "sharpen its vigilence" against "insidious forces" working to "undermine our democracy."

Report on Newsprint

The publishers received an A.N.P.A. report on newsprint supply which said newsprint needs of U. S. and Canadian publications have been met in the last year.

But it added that the "continued increase in demand" in the two countries "causes concern about an adequate supply for future years."

The A.N.P.A. traffic department reported on its work as a watchdog on rail and express rates for newspapers.

Through negotiations, the department said, it staved off rate increases on eastern railroads that would have cost newspapers an extra $200,000.

A lengthy report on the A.N.P.A. research department, which operates a laboratory at Easton, Pa., also was presented to the publishers.

It described various new developments in technical processes for newspaper production, and outlined new projects and experiments underway to improve production methods.

Labor Wins . . .

cided with another close win for labor. The government upped its overall margin in the House to eight votes with the election of a Laborite in Scotland. The victory, however, did not come in time for today's crucial test.

The Scottish race in the Dumbartonshire west division went to Tom Steele, Laborite, by less than 300 votes. The tally, after a recount, was Steele, Laborite, 20,367; Robert Allan, Conservative, 20,074. The victory will strenghten labor's hand as soon as Steele takes his oath and assumes his seat in the house.

To Join Conservatives

The nine Liberals in the House of Commons decided last night to join Churchill's Conservatives in challenging the government's two budget items.

Labor holds 313 of he 625 House of Commons seats. The combined opposition holds 306, which includes 296 Conservatives, nine Liberals and one Liberal National, allied with the Conservatives. There are two vacancies and three members, for various reasons, have not yet taken the oath of office. The remaining seat is held by the politically neutral speaker. On a major vote, the government and potential opposition voting strengths are 310 to 303. The government and opposition each has two non-voting tellers. The Laborite chairman of committees and his Conservative deputy also do not vote.

The overall margin thus is seven votes for Labor. But counting those on all sides, who will not be able to vote for various reasons, including illness, observers figured the final total would be 305 for Labor to 300 for the opposition.

The government generally is believed to be trying to hang on to office until the fall. It then is expected to quit and call for a new general election, seeking the decisive mandate it failed to gain in the Feb. 23 voting.

Another Baby Charge

New York, April 26 (AP)—Irwin Slater, a 40-year-old lawyer recently charged with conspiracy in New York-Miami illegal deals in babies, was in trouble again with the law today. He is accused in a new warrant with illegally providing a baby for adoption in Brooklyn this time—at a higher fee. Assistant District Attorney Aaron Silver said Slater had charged $2,500 in the Brooklyn case. His earlier "help" to would-be parents had not gone over $2,000, authorities said.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Artist Is Building Home by Himself

Woodstock, April 26—Stanley Crane, Woodstock artist whose first one-man show of paintings opened Tuesday at the Grand Central Art Galleries, has in addition to painting been building for the past 15 years his mountainside home in Bearsville entirely by himself. The small inviting stone house seems to veritably cling to the side of the mountain overlooking the Woodstock valley with the Hudson visible in the distance. During the war when lumber was scarce, Crane was able to purchase only the roughest kind. He had to do all of his own planing which has pleasingly resulted in the effect of hand-hewn boards.

Crane was born in LaPorte, Indiana in 1905, and began to paint when he was nine years old, learning the fundamentals from his father and grandmother. This has been his sole art training. Judge J. E. Winn, collector and connoisseur, of LaPorte, had much to do with moulding his mind and setting the direction of his career. He brought Crane in contact with the history of art and inspired him to make a trip to Europe, which he did spending three and a half years in France and Italy. It was in France that he met and married his wife, Rose Crane. His great-grandfather was a builder of prairie schooners in LaPorte.

In 1928, he was awarded a prize at the Hoosier Salon in Chicago. He exhibited at the Albany Institute in 1942 and in the same year at the Museum of Modern Art where he also won prizes. He was awarded the Saltus Gold Medal at the National Academy of Design in 1945 and the popular prize at the Carnegie Show in 1948. He has also received two awards for advertising art and painted a mural for the Eastern Airlines in Jacksonville, Fla.

Audience Enjoys Play At Local Art Gallery

Woodstock, April 26 — There were moments last Saturday night at the Woodstock Art Gallery when the audience and the cast of players in William Saroyan's "My Heart's in the Highland" almost became one. Through a unique use of the two stage sets, which were designed and built by Edward Chavez, along the north wall of the gallery with the audience placed lengthwise before it, the action moved back and forth naturally. On the left was the small cottage of the poet, Ben Alexander who was portrayed sensitivity by Bruce Currie, and on the right was the little grocery store, with Barney Dordick as the understanding grocer.

It was superbly directed by Randolph Echols, an actor. Remarkable performances were given by Roger Dordick as Johnnie and Sam Eskin as Mr. McGregor. Supporting players contributing to the success of the evening were Sylvia Dordick, Gladys Robinson and John Mayo, Russell Robinson, and Edward Millman.

Musical effects were provided by Robert Steuding, trumpeter, of Kingston. Townfolk who assisted were: Margo King, David and Marge Huffine, Nancy Maynard, Sylvester Pollet, Lucinda Bryant, John Boswell, Ronald Locke, Bo Waters, Tommy Huffine.

Proceeds will be donated to the Woodstock Artists Welfare Fund.

Echols will begin rehearsals soon for Bernard Shaw's play "Androcles and the Lion," which will be presented on two evenings. Dates for rehearsals and presentations will be announced.

X-Ray Dates Given For Local Survey

Woodstock, April 26—During the monthly meeting of the Woodstock Health Nursing Committee Tuesday afternoon at the recreation room of the Dutch Reformed Church, Miss Anne Cassidy, public health nurse announced that the chest X-ray survey will take place in Woodstock on May 23, 24 and 25. The program will be held at the Town Hall probably from 1 to 8 p. m. An organizational meeting will be held May 8 with chairmen of the various groups, who will assist with the survey, attending. On May 15 there will be a large general meeting of all workers participating and canvassing of the town will begin May 16.

It is hoped that all town residents over 16 years of age will be X-rayed. Each X-ray takes about a minute and it will be requested that no jewelry or metal objects be worn.

Before the committee business meeting a new health department film, "The Problem Child" was shown. Actually it depicted the problems confronting serious parents seeking to understand their two-year-old daughter who was a perfectly normal, aggressive and curious individual. An informal discussion followed the showing of the picture.

Refreshments were served by a group of Girl Scouts, who are working for their homemaking merit badges, under the supervision of Mrs. Charles King who was hostess for the afternoon.

Crane Painting

"The Soap Bubble Pipe" by Stanley Crane, one of his 12 paintings now on exhibition at the Grand Central Galleries, New York.

Will Give Exhibit

Woodstock, April 26—Alexander Fuhrman of Kingston, head of the Ulster County Artists Association, attended the demonstration of portrait painting presented by Kenneth Van Rensselaer Monday morning at A. A. Champanier's Saxton Falls Art School in Kingston. So impressed was Fuhrman by Van Rensselaer's exhibition of painting a head in three hours, that he asked him to give a similar demonstration before the Ulster County Artists Association in Kingston. The date will be announced later.

They celebrated the existence of their club which was formed over seven months ago. They are now planning to present a play and a pet show this summer to build up the club's finances.

Money for Uniforms

Woodstock, April 26—The Harold Lloyd comedy, "Movie Crazy," which was sponsored by the Woodstock Masonic Square Club on April 20, netted $100 which will be used to buy uniforms for the Woodstock School Band.

Friday is the safest day on which to drive a car, and Saturday the most dangerous, according to statistics.

Catch a Waab, Get $287

Khartoum, Sudan (AP)—The Fuzzy-Wuzzies of the Red Sea hills in the Sudan can win a reward of $287 for capture of a live waab. The waab is a legendary creature of Fuzzy-Wuzzy folklore. They say it is an enormous creature in the shape of a man living in the hills. It is supposed to be covered with thick red hair and possesses the ability to speak all known languages. The waab, the Fuzzy-Wuzzies say, has no joints so it cannot lie down. So it goes to sleep leaning against a tree. It can't stretch itself since its arms have no joints so it rubs itself against a tree. E. J. N. Wallis, governor of Khartoum, told a recent luncheon club group that many of the wilder Fuzzy-Wuzzies still believe in the waab. He said that a government offer of 100 Egyptian pounds posted years ago for capture of a live waab is still unclaimed. Nor has anyone attempted to claim the 50 pound reward offered at the same time for a dead waab.

Paintings From Pre-History

London (AP)—Northern Rhodesia's prehistoric peoples left behind some carefully done purple paintings. The Colonial Office says the rock paintings were discovered in a remote cave near Musofu Mission by J. Desmond Clark, curator of the Rhodes-Livingstone Museum at Nachitalo. They show antelopes, and possibly zebra. They are the first of their kind found in northern Rhodesia.

Character Actor Dies

Hollywood, April 26 (AP)—Hobart Cavanaugh, 63, one of the movies' and stage's best known character actors, died early today after an operation at the Motion Picture Country Home Hospital. Often appearing as a hen-pecked husband or a harried bookkeeper, his face, if not his name, was known to millions of movie goers. His latest screen role was in the unreleased "Stella." Among his other pictures since 1933 were "Captain Blood," "Rose of Washington Square," "Kismet," "Margie" and "Driftwood." His theatrical career spanned a half-century, having started in vaudeville. His most recent Broadway appearance was in the musical comedy "As the Girls Go."

Black Bear Triplets

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 26 (AP)—The Sherman Park zoo here is astonished. One of its guests, a black bear, has given birth to triplets. Triplet births in the black bear family, says Conservation Officer Alex McLane, are "most unusual." The mother bear hasn't permitted the newcomers outside her cave yet. The zoo says the cubs probably weighed about nine ounces at birth—infant bears are very small—but ought to be around 70 pounds come fall.

Deadly Fumes

Puzzling Commands

Boston, April 26 (AP)—The commands of two teen-aged holdupmen gave J. Albert Cassidy, Jr., a liquor store clerk, a bad time last night. Brandishing pistols, one gunman shouted "hands up!" The other cried "hands down!" They got together finally and fled with $177.

HELD IN KIDNAPING

Mrs. Evelyn Jane Jordan, 18-year-old hotel chambermaid, enters Lincoln Hospital, in New York, April 25, after being charged with the kidnaping of tiny Chaneta Holden, an incubator baby. The baby was found alive and well in the storeroom of the Coburg Hotel, near New York's Pennsylvania Station, where Mrs. Jordan was working.

Huber Declares

town pay station. He reiterated the "blackout" statement and said he was interested only in "getting some rest."

Call Newspaper Editor

Then, a few minutes after, Huber talked on the telephone t Managing Editor Larry Angel at the Mount Vernon Argus. He told Angel he was tired, was going to get some rest but said he intended to return to Washington to testify.

Huber came here yesterday morning by air, with another witness, a former F.B.I. agent. Both went to a hotel. Huber left at noon, saying he was going to get a haircut.

Hours later, he failed to respond when his name was called at an evening session of the Senate hearing. A search yielded no clues to his whereabouts.

A few minutes after Huber called on his wife, he also telephoned his ex-F.B.I. agent friend, Larry E. Kerley, here in Washington. Kerley said Huber told him he was in a New York restaurant at the time. Kerley added:

'Came to' at 4 a. m.

"He had one of these 'I don't know what happened stories.' He said he 'came to' at 4 a. m. Obviously he was overcome with a fear complex on this thing.

"He had been promised a closed hearing. A public hearing was too much for him. He said he wanted to get some rest and would get in touch with me later."

Kerley said Huber had been upset over the prospect of a tough quizzing from Senator Tydings (D.-Md.), head of the investigating committee. Kerley said Huber felt he would be more of a defendant than a witness.

Chief Counsel Edward M. Morgan said the investigating committee might decide during the day whether to cite Huber for contempt of Congress.

"I'll place the matter before them," he said, "and see if they wish to proceed with contempt proceedings or issue another subpoena for Huber to testify at a later date."

Huber had not contacted Morgan at mid-morning and presumably had not given any explanation of his disappearance to any of the investigating senators.

Dogs Win . . .

made it "unpleasant for people to live near them," and stressed in closing: "I am working for the interest of the dogs"

Charles Thorne, 38 Furnace street, who said huntings dogs should be kept outside, suggested to the alderman: "Maybe you can tell us how we can stop a hunting dog from barking."

Wouldn't Penalize Dogs

Mrs. Hilah B. Chattaway, 33 Linderman avenue, said she had a dog that was kept in the house at night. He barked some when he was out during the day, she said, but this was only when children passed the house on their way to school. She felt that dog owners should not be penalized for a dog's natural inclination to bark.

Mason, who supported Alderman Mayes, said he thought "the dog situation in the city' was critical." He said he has had dogs, but does not have one now because he is living on rented property.

Ever since he has lived on Smith avenue, he said, he and his family have been bothered by barking dogs. One neighbor, he said raises dogs in a backyard and another keeps a hound. A recent Sunday, he said, he and the family were waked at 6 a. m., and he cited an attack by a dog from across the street.

Said He Saw Judge

Following the attack, he said, he saw a judge and was told, that there was no law to back action. Two months ago, however, he said, the judge declared the dog vicious.

This dog, he said is still running loose, "and I hope and pray that if he bites someone else it is not my daughter."

By contrast, he stressed, that another neighbor has two normally spirited dogs which have their share of outdoor fun and are not continuously barking.

Howard C. Shurter, 10 St. James street, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Bureau, who contended that "if you pass an ordinance, it will be illegal and the courts will throw it out," read from an article in The American Legion Magazine to prove his point.

The article dealing with decisions of judges, told of one in which the opinion said in effect that you cannot stop a rooster from crowing. The decision stressed that roosters have been crowing since the year one. The only way to stop them, it said, was to wring their necks, and if that were done we would not have ham and eggs as the traditional American breakfast.

Shurter stressed: "If it isn't a habit of a dog to bark, I never knew a dog."

H. Van Wyck Darrow, Jr., 16 Josephine avenue, who upheld the suggestion that barking dogs considered a menace should be reported to the S.P.C.A., and not be a concern of the police, considered his dog a protection for his wife and children.

His children play in the yard, he said, and if they or his wife are disturbed the dog barks. The children, he said, have a good time and make noise—they make as much noise as the dog. He then asked if this noise of children or that of other youngsters playing ball, should be stopped. There would be just as much point in stopping the children, he stressed, as in stopping a barking dog.

Several other persons, whose names and addresses were not obtained in full, and some who could not be heard because of poor acoustics in the Common Council Chamber, spoke briefly at the session.

Costello Is Called

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Frank Costello, reputed big-time gambler of New York, was summoned by Senate investigators today to testify tomorrow on what he knows about gambling in this country. Chairman McFarland (D.-Ariz.) said Costello had "agreed voluntarily at our request" to appear before a Senate Commerce Subcommittee studying anti-gambling legislation. Costello's name has been linked for several years with the big-time gambling and slot-machine business. McFarland said he wanted information from Costello about bookmaking operations and so-called "lay-off" betting in which bookmakers hedge or insure their bets.

tural questionnaire was "unreasonable and ridiculous."

The questionnaires were sent to farmers early in order not to interfere with spring plowing.

Census authorities said farmers particularly objected to questions about income and the cost of their homes.

Mrs. St. George, who represents the 29th District, said in her speech that she had been deluged with letters from farmers asking about the census questionnaire. She said she had advised them not to answer them.

Reporter About Town

By Jean Mele

"Of all the orchestras I have conducted . . . I should say that the New York Philharmonic was the most responsive."

Ole Windingstad, 64 years old, standing on his wind and sun-swept Ulster county hilltop, was unintentionally paying himself a high compliment.

The musicians who play in the New York Philharmonic are noted throughout the music world as a cynical lot, most of them, with no illusions about conductors. The glamour conductor does not make them swoon, the dictator conductor does not make them tremble, and there have been certain stories of revenge which might well freeze the blood of any conductor whose musicianship was not secure.

"Yes, I know they are supposed to be difficult to conduct, very difficult . . . they are so temperamental," Mr. Windingstad admitted. "After 10 bars, they know everything about you. But it is a fine orchestra. The men responded very well."

This, according to one of Mr. Windingstad's associates, was a masterpiece of understatement. The orchestra played magnificently under his baton, and when the concert ended, there was a standing ovation from the audience.

Windingstad, who has conducted many of the finest orchestras in the world, including the NBC Symphony; who founded the Brooklyn Symphony and built up the New Orleans Symphony literally from scratch to a first-rate organization, is now living permanently in his home, "Skytop," about three miles from Kingston off the Onteora Trail.

On top of his charming hillside, he pursues his hobbies of carpentry, masonry, and working with motors, he nurses a case of ulcers, and prepares for the next concert with his present orchestra, the Dutchess County Philharmonic.

His Fifth Season

This is his fifth season with the Philharmonic—whose musicians come from Kingston, Middletown, Beacon, Liberty, Hudson, Albany, Croton, Marlborough, Poughkeepsie, and other Hudson Valley communities.

And it is his fifth season of fighting the Philharmonic's worst enemy—the invisible enemy that tears at the heart and makes the ulcers worse —

Plain, old-fashioned snobbery.

It was the same way in New Orleans, when he was building up the Symphony there. And it's the same way with musicians all over the nation, who fight for the community's right to MAKE good music —and just to listen to it. It's one more variation on the old theme—the prophets without honor in their own country.

Windingstad put the matter carefully.

"There is a tendency among some of the public . . . a snobbish tendency to want to hear only what they call the best."

Then he lost his diplomacy and protested. "It would be the same as a process of elimination!" he exclaimed. "Let us say the Boston Symphony is the best we have. Then why not eliminate all the others? Why not just have the best? The one best thing in every field?"

No Credit, He Says

He shook his head. "What a silly notion! A community can import outside musicians for concerts, and they can import an orchestra. But that's no credit to the community! They're not doing anything for the community! It is the musical life that is IN the community —THAT is what is important. The opportunity for good musicians to play. The opportunity for a community to participate in the making of good music. . . . That is what is important!"

Have Had Same Battle

Every young orchestra has had the same battle, and many young musicians, for that matter. Musicians tell of well-known colleagues who are acclaimed in cities throughout the land—except in their own home towns.

Fortunately, there is always creative element in a community which supports the belief that culture, like charity, begins at home. If there was not, no orchestra would ever have managed to get its start. Philadelphians would listen only to the New York Philharmonic. New Yorkers would listen only to the Philadelphia Symphony. And in Boston—they would listen only to God.

Ole Windingstad tries to combat this enemy by making good music, by featuring gifted soloists (and sometimes imported ones, as in the concert Wednesday when Karin Branzell, internationally known contralto will sing), and by inviting people to come to the concerts and paying for their tickets himself.

"I feel that if they could only come once, and listen, they might get over that prejudice," he says.

He feels the orchestra belongs to the Hudson Valley—not just to Poughkeepsie or to Dutchess County as its misleading and mouth-filling name would imply.

"The cities in this area are not large enough each to have its own symphony," he said. Poughkeepsie makes a good central point for a Hudson Valley symphony because "it is right in the center, between Albany and New York."

His ambitions for the orchestra?

"I would like to give more concerts, to get a larger orchestra, and to give concerts in other cities in this area."

Gives Four Concerts

At present, the group gives four concerts and two children's concerts a season. The concert, last of the season, scheduled for Wednesday, almost had to be canceled for lack of funds. But the soloist, and Windingstad, and most members of the orchestra are contributing their services without charge . . . and the concert will be held.

His musicians say of Windingstad that his musicianship is as sound as the rocks in his native Norway. His movements are spare, and every one counts. He conducts entirely from memory.

The fiction has grown up that "the greater the swing, the greater the conductor," until many audiences require a conductor to be one step away from a ballet dancer. Windingstad has stood firm against this trend.

"Oh, I could do some dance steps," said the maestro—getting to his feet and illustrating. "But it's not the motions—it's the musicianship."

To please the ladies! Shorties are longer, in fact, just wrist length. Long gloves are very versatile with novelty gauntlets getting a big play. Nylon continues to be favored because it dries in a wink, retains its shape and wears practically forever. The glove wardrobe has taken on a new importance because the fashion picture focuses plenty of attention on sleeves.

And, what attention is being focused on cottons! Never before have designers done so much with cottons. Grange News

Another Grange Essay Contest has been announced—the 22nd Annual Highway Essay competition. Your Grange Lecturer can furnish all the details, and with the closing date on June 15, anyone interested should begin at once. In brief, the subject will be "Youth's Responsibility in Highway Safety," not more than 800 words, all eligible who are Grange members in good standing, and not older than 18 years on June 15 of this year.

Last year Laura Potter, a 14-year older from Saratoga county was national winner. She received an all-expense trip to the annual sessions at Sacramento, Calif., and a $50 Savings Bond. This year the award will be a trip to Minnesota, accompanied by one parent, and a $100 bond. The state prize will be $15. In both national and state there are lower value prizes for runner-ups. In addition to all this, both the subordinate and state lecturer who sends a national prize winner will each receive a $100 bond. Better get busy.

Apple Blossom Festival in the Hudson valley seems to be one of the first of the season's many celebrations around the state. Dutchess County Granges are busy picking a candidate for the county festival on April 29, and one of these will be chosen as a queen who will participate at the valley affair in Kingston May 6 and 7. If they can find one as pretty as an apple blossom, she'll be a beauty.

Lecturers' schools will be held in four convenient places through the state beginning at Ithaca, Bibbins Hall, April 25-26, and moving over to Canisteo Grange, Canisteo for April 27-28. Each session will occupy two days, from 10 a. m. to 4. Luncheons will be provided, and reservations are requested. Next month there will be two more held at Gouverneur Grange, Gouverneur, May 9-10; and at Newtonville Methodist Church, Albany (four miles north of the city) on 12-13.

Subjects to be covered, according to State Lecturer Florence Pickett, will include Birdsfoot Trefoil, Rural Life Sunday, Publicity, Music and Recreation, Discussion Tactics and Lecturer Opportunities. State Master Sherwood and other personnel will attend, and advance information indicates an enthusiastic series of sessions.

The Hurley Juvenile Grange will meet tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in the Hurley school. The degree will be conferred, and all subordinate members wishing to become honorary members of the Juvenile Grange were asked to be present.

Schwamb or Kuhn Maroon Choice To Start Against Stewart Nine

Baseball Opener Set For Friday

Southpaw Ted Schwamb, a fine-looking pitching prospect who may "arrive" with the Kingston High School varsity nine, is scheduled to start the seasonal opener against the Stewart Field Prep team Friday in Newburgh.

Lack of control a southpaw disease kept Schwamb from attaining stardom last year. He has all the stuff necessary to become a standout pitcher and Coach Bill Burke figures he is ready to assert himself.

The Maroon mentor said he might switch to Bert Kuhn, the spunky little righthander as the opening day choice but, in either case, Schwamb and Kuhn would divide the pitching chores.

Kuhn came on fast in mid-season last year and delivered several excellent relief roles. Coach Burke rates the two flingers about on a par and has five others on the staff.

Carry Seven Pitchers

"We have an unusually large staff this year," Burke said today, "but we consider each of them a good prospect. We'll try to find work for all of them."

The Maroon schedule for 1950 lists 14 regular games and a couple of practice workouts such as the one against Windham High yesterday. The Maroon won 8 to 1 with late inning rallies. Schwamb and Kuhn were in for brief workouts.

Behind the two top starters, Burke has Jerry Bechtold, Joe Pecora, Pete Tiano, Henry Levy and Joe Turck.

Kozlowski or Brink will draw the starting catching assignment, with Charlie Farley and Ed Burger in reserve.

Bob Lyons, a hard hitting newcomer, is scheduled to break in at third base. The remainder of the infield is all-veteran with Molly Leonard at first, Ronnie Scheffel, second; and Rod Whitaker at shortstop.

Burke said he might go with Jimmy Riehl at third base. If he doesn't, Riehl will be used in centerfield and be flanked by veterans Bud Scheffel in left and Joe Norton in right.

If Riehl starts at the hot corner, Bob Beaumont, the basketball player, will get the call in centerfield.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Billy Brown, 165, New Haven, Conn., stopped Chico Pachero, 156, South America, 6.

Is Sawyer Kidding Or Is This True?

New York, April 26 (AP)—The greatest centerfielder in all baseball is at the moment playing for Toronto in the International League, declares Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Philadelphia Phillies.

He makes the statement earnestly in discussing Ed Sanicki, the big youngster whom he recently sent to the Phils' Triple-A farm club for a bit more polishing.

"I mean over the long haul—for the next 10 years," Sawyer explained. "Sanicki, in other words, is now where Joe DiMaggio was when he came up. He's going to be truly great.

"He can field with Joe, or any other outfielder in the game right now. But there are two or three little things he needs to learn and I believe he can learn them quicker with Toronto. We can get him back when we want him, and that probably will be a long time before the season ends."

Sanicki was somewhat of a sensation when the Phils brought him up late last season. He made three hits in 18 times at bat in the big show and all were home runs.

Back to the Bushes For Danny Gardella

Cincinnati, April 26 (AP)—It's back to the minors for Danny Gardella, the half-pint outfielder who caused baseball a lot of legal headaches.

The St. Louis Cardinals sold the former New York Giants fly hawk to the Houston Buffs of the Texas League outright for an undisclosed sum yesterday.

Manager Eddie Dyer of the Cards said, "I know he's been sold to Houston, and that's all."

Gardella said, "I'm glad to know where I'm finally being placed. I'm supposed to fly to St. Louis tomorrow to see Fred Saigh and I have no definite plans beyond that. I'm working for the organization and when they send you somewhere you have to go. I'm sure Mr. Saigh and I will come to terms and I'll go to Houston and play the best that I can."

Houston expects Gardella on hand for Thursday night's game with Dallas. The Buffs also expect Chuck Kress, whom they bought from the Chicago White Sox.

Eastern's Ruling on Balks Makes Sense

Williamsport, Pa., April 26 (AP)—The Eastern Baseball League's president, Thomas P. Richardson, says league umpires will "use their own judgment" in calling a pitcher's balk."

"We'll warn the pitcher first before calling a balk," Richardson said yesterday. "There'll be no eight or ten balks called in a game."

Richardson's comment was little different from that of Will Harridge, American League president, who said the balk is the same as it has been and there is no intent of change. A one-second wait before each pitch was installed this year by baseball's rules committee.

The Class A League had said that the umpires will check only to see that the pitcher comes to a complete halt before each toss.

"There will be no stop watches," he added. "It's strictly a judgment matter."

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The long distance operator said New York was calling.

A strange mixture of Irish brogue and New Yorkese came floating through the receiver. Who else could it be but Bill Johnston, youthful wrestling promoter whose rich baritone dominates the wrestling commentary on CBS television every Tuesday night.

"How's your golf game?" was the first question.

The young man didn't even bother to get in a fast plug for his wrestling show here Saturday night featuring Argentine Rocca. And the latter is slightly on the terrific side.

"At the moment it's non-existent," we replied, "but bring your sticks up Friday and we'll desecrate some golf course around here."

"Say, that's some wrestling show I got lined up for the Kingston folks," came the inevitable plug. "This guy Rocca will knock them dead up there just like he did the first time. He'll be terrific."

"Yeh," we yawned. "Never heard of him."

"Stop pulling my leg," he pleaded.

• Is It Rocca or Golf:

More adjectives about Rocca, the back-breaker, came pouring through. It seems that Johnston's recent exposure to broadcasting has resulted in an alarming revision of his vocabulary, particularly with the adjectives. He continued to toss the twenty-five centers around in reckless fashion.

"Did you call me to talk about golf or rave about Rocca?" we insisted.

"I'm sorry," the guy answered, "but you know I'm still a press agent at heart."

"How's the TV show?" we asked.

"Very nicely, thank you," Mr. Johnston replied, "got a permanent job and 'Red' seems to be satisfied." "Red" being Red Barber, CBS sports director.

The conversation switched to Newburgh and "Bo" Gill, a mutual friend.

• "Bo" Up in Woodstock:

"Have you heard from 'Bo' lately?"

"No and nobody else has," we assured him. "He's off in the woods near Woodstock writing a 750,000 word scenario for a Hollywood picture about Coach Lanky Masterson and Newburgh Free Academy's basketball team."

"What did they do?" was the naive inquiry.

"What did they do? Why man don't you know that they recently won the DUSO basketball pennant for the first time in 26 years?"

Johnston appeared singularly unimpressed. He just didn't comprehend the scope or significance of Gill's tome.

"About time don't you think? Incidentally, can't he keep the script under a half million words?"

"Not this one," came the reply, "these were no mere mortals, these N.F.A. basketeers."

"Your man Kelly (Joe) stopped in to see us a couple of days ago. He looked sharp."

"How is that state tournament coming along?"

"You know that old line about horses, horses, horses. Well, this is just women, women, women."

"Is that bad? Maybe you and Joe will find a 'wife'."

• Don't Forget That Plug:

The golf date was arranged and the conversation switched back to guess what. Wrestling. Specifically, Mr. Johnston's next local extravaganza.

"Don't forget to say something nice about the Rocca show. He's terrific."

The operator asked for more money and the conversation ended abruptly.

Chicago—A total of 119 college cage stars were named in the National Basketball Association draft list, also assigned were 18 pro players from St. Louis and Anderson clubs, which had been taken over by the league.

Pinehurst, N. C.—Defending Champion Peggy Kirk and last year's runner-up, Grace Lenczyk, won their first round matches in the Women's North and South tournament.

Boxer Injured

Honolulu, April 26 (AP) — Roy Miller, Kansas City middleweight, was rushed to Kuakini Hospital last night after Carl (Bobo) Olson, Honolulu, TKO'd him with a fifth round punch that fractured his jaw. Olson threw the pulverizing right at the end of the fifth. He was awarded a technical knockout when Miller couldn't come out for the sixth. The Honolulu middleweight held a close lead. Miller disclosed both jaws had been broken before, the last time in December, 1948.

Major League Roundup

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

They snickered when the New York Giants traded away all that power to the Boston Braves for defense-minded Eddie Stanky and Alvin Dark.

They smiled knowingly when Sid Gordon returned to the Polo Grounds in a Braves' uniform and almost singlehanded whipped his former mates with a pair of home runs. One came with the bases loaded.

They laughed as Will Marshall, Buddy Kerr and Gordon continued to star for the Braves while Stanky and Dark did nothing at bat or in the field to distinguish themselves. The laughs turned to jeers when Stanky and Dark messed up a potential double play that cost the Giants a ball game.

All this happened during the first week of the season. But yesterday started a new week—with different results.

While Gordon, Marshall and Kerr were held hitless by Joe Hatten as the lefthander pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3-0 triumph over Boston, Stanky and Dark were sparking the Giants to their first triumph of the season. The pair reached base five times as the Giants defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-4. The pair also excelled in the field.

Dark Clicks

Stanky proved he was still an excellent leadoff batter by drawing a pair of walks and singling in five trips to the plate. He scored twice. Stanky now has received seven free passes and scored five times in five games.

Dark walloped a home run and double in four times at bat to boost his batting average to a lofty .421. Until yesterday the keystone combination had not driven in a run nor cracked an extra base hit.

Hatten allowed only two singles at Boston, as the Dodgers registered their fifth straight triumph following their opening day loss to the Phillies. He retired 23 men in succession between Bob Elliott's second inning single and Connie Ryan's ninth inning walk. Sam Jethroe followed Ryan's walk with a single, but Hatten got Marshall to end the inning and the game.

Raschi Goes Route

Vic Raschi became the first New York Yankee pitcher to go the route, pitching a 6-3 victory over the Athletics in Philadelphia. It was Raschi's 12th victory over the Mackmen. The Yankees played without Tommy Henrich, who suffered a recurrence of his knee injury in batting practice.

Detroit's Tigers won their fifth game in six starts, defeating the Browns in a St. Louis night game. Virgil Trucks had a one-hit shutout for seven innings but homers by Hank Arft and Dick Kokos and a double knocked him out of the box. Art Houtteman stopped the Brownie uprising in the ninth to preserve Trucks' second victory.

Rain and wet grounds forced the postponements of the Boston Red Sox-Washington and Cleveland-Chicago games in the American League and the Chicago-Pittsburgh game in the National. Cincinnati and St. Louis were not scheduled.

Twi Managers Abolish Player Transfer Rule

Accept Two New Sponsors For 1950

City Baseball League managers voted to abolish the controversial player transfer rule last night at a meeting held at the Y.M.C.A.

Under the new setup teams must finish the season with their original rosters, except in case of emergency when the league will make special provisions.

The new rule is aimed specifically at players who jump from one club to another.

President Jimmy Turck appointed Big Joe Mahar and Amelio "Milly" Beradi, City League veterans, to the Advisory Board.

The Shaughnessy post season playoffs will be used again this season, with the first team playing the third and the second meeting the fourth.

Two New Sponsors

The former Frank's Sport Shop team will be known as Johnny Forum Bowlodrome. Old Capital Motors will sponsor the former Staudle Bakery squad. Joe Watzka will pilot the Bowlodrome with Francis Staudle at the helm for Old Capital.

With the exception of the changes involving transfers the league rules will be the same as in [illegible].

The managers will meet on Tuesday, May 2 at 7 p. m. at the Y.M.C.A.

Joseph Has 690 Series

Ken Joseph missed the coveted "700" circle by only ten pins in Monday night's City League session when he blasted a rousing 690.

The gaunt, match game shark blasted successive counts of 239, 217 and 234

The huge series was the best of five "600" totals compiled during the night

The league race took on a new complexion as the Jones Dairy squad won three hard fought games from Jasper's, virtually eliminating the defending champions

Meanwhile the Colonials stayed with the Dairymen by sweeping a trio from Ruzzo's Juniors with a 2922 blast

Larry Wershaupt was runnerup to Joseph with 208-233-632 Phil Corrado tossed 210-204-608; John Mac Lellan 203-245-607; Phil Masters 208-210-605, John Sangi 201-232-600.

Also top bracket were Frank Russano 221-593, Angelo Ferraro 246-598, I Alward 224-578, J. Altamore 222-574, and Mike Provenzano 208-575

Brinks Uniform Is Found by Police During Arrests

Washington, April 26 (AP) Police arrested seven men in a roundup of holdup suspects today and found a uniform of the Brinks Armored Car Service at a house where three were taken into custody.

The men are being questioned for possible implication in the million-dollar Brinks robbery in Boston last January.

Maj Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police, who called the seven "little punks," said some of them had admitted participating in three major holdups in the Washington area.

The three holdups Barrett said members of the gang admitted netted $5,500. The police superintendent said they may have pulled others involving about $50,000 altogether in the last two months.

The roundup of the gang started at 5:30 a. m. when a score of Prince Georges county, Maryland, and Washington officers armed with riot guns surrounded a white bungalow in Defense Heights, Md., which a group of young men rented three weeks ago.

Three youths were found in the bungalow when police battered down the front and rear doors.

In the bungalow police found a uniform shirt, cap and Sam Brown pistol belt marked with the insignia of the Brinks Service.

From Defense Heights the police squads raced to the 1200 block of Everts street in northeast Washington. Two other youths were arrested there.

The policemen learned that two others had left the house moments before they arrived. A lookout was broadcast and 10 minutes later the two were arrested in a taxicab in northwest Washington.

Barrett said the youths identified themselves as:

William Durwood Campbell, 21.
Byron Eugene Heslop, 22.
William Lee Mason, 18.
Joseph C. Donner, 24.
John Mazone, 19.

The police superintendent withheld the names of two of the prisoners because he said their connection with the gang had not been clearly established.

Settlement May Come

New York, April 26 (AP)—Telephone workers and the huge Bell System appeared to be heading toward a general wage settlement today after indefinite postponement of the national phone strike for this morning. New talks that lasted all night and into this morning in New York city were adjourned to a later hour today without any final agreement. But confident federal mediators reported continued progress.

Had No License

Dennis F. Rooney, 45, of West Park who was arrested by state police Sunday on a charge of being an unlicensed operator, was taken before Justice Francis E. Palen at Port Ewen last night and a fine of $25 or 10 days in jail imposed. Rooney was brought back to jail.

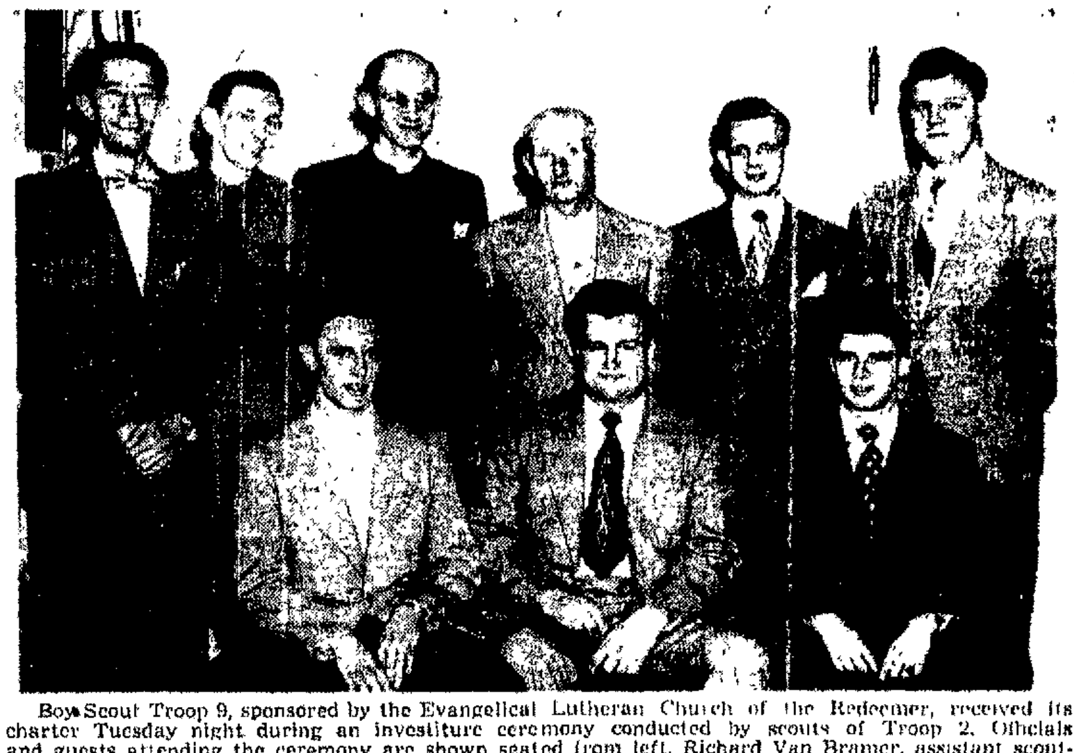
Boy Scout Troop 9 Gets Charter



Boy Scout Troop 9, sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, received its charter Tuesday night during an investiture ceremony conducted by scouts of Troop 2. Officials and guests attending the ceremony are shown seated from left, Richard Van Bramer, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 9; Chester Mohr, scoutmaster; and William Mould, assistant scoutmaster. Standing in the same order are Fred Spalt, troop chairman; Ole Christensen, neighborhood commissioner; the Rev. Ravid C. Gaise, pastor of the church; and Walter Snyder, Robert Short and Thomas Maines, members of the local committee. (Freeman Photo)

Redeemer Troop Of Boy Scouts Receives Charter

Boy Scout Troop 9 was presented with its charter Tuesday night at a candlelight investiture ceremony conducted by scouts from Troop 2 in the presence of officials of the Ulster-Greene Council, B.S.A. The new unit which is sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers streets, is led by Scoutmaster Chester Mohr.

The ceremony, witnessed by many parents of the boys and members of the congregation, was opened with words of welcome by the pastor of the church, the Rev. David C. Gaise, who introduced Fred Spalt, chairman of the troop committee, who was in charge of the program. During the course of the evening, Myron Keefe, scout executive, presented the troop charter to Pastor Gaise and Frank Burke, district commissioner, made the presentation of insignia to the members of the troop committee and the officials of the troop.

The local committee includes Chairman Spalt, Walter Snyder, Thomas L. Maines, Robert F. Short and Pastor Gaise Aiding Mr. Mohr in the operation of the unit are Assistant Scoutmasters Richard Van Bramer, William Mould, and Donald Snyder. Ole Christensen, neighborhood commissioner and former scoutmaster of the old Troop 9 was instrumental in planning the reorganization.

Climax of the exercises came as the scouts of Troop 2, sponsored by the Hasbrouck Engine Co. of Connelly under Scoutmaster Martin Mendock followed the candle-lighting ritual. Candles were lighted by the boys as they recited the three cardinal virtues and explained the points in the scout law. Following this, pins were presented to the new scouts and to their mothers.

The membership of Troop 9 includes: Peter Cain, Bruce Clair, Clarence Dahl, Francis Gardner, George Hamilton, Dennis Lenahan, Robert Mannello, Robert Mould, Franz Muller, Peter Newell, Bruce Peters, Earl Schoonmaker, Dale Spalt, Abram VanAken, William Merrill, Ronald Kidd, Fred Lahl, Darryl Lang, Donald Lang, Arthur Peters, Robert Campbell.

At the close of the program the Scouts served refreshments to their parents and guests and Joseph McNierney, district chairman of camping and activities, showed movies of the Scout Camp.

Interesting Meeting Held by Air Reserves

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the 9267 Volunteer Air Reserve Training Squadron was held Tuesday evening at the American Legion building with commanding officer Lt. Col. Theodore R. Lee presiding.

Guest speaker was City Judge Raymond J Mino, a former officer in the judge advocate general's department. Judge Mino gave a very interesting account of his wartime experiences in court marshal duty at Camp Edwards and with the War Crime Administration in Germany. He also summarized the important changes in the new court marshal procedure.

The air reservists were notified of several openings for mobilization assignments at Stewart Air Force Base.

An interesting feature was the playing of several recordings from the series, "I Can Hear It Now" by Edward R. Murrow and Fred W. Friendly, presenting the voices of Chamberlain, Churchill, Hitler, Mussolini, President Roosevelt, Wendell Willkie, Al Smith and others of the period from Munich in 1938 to Pearl Harbor in 1941.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, May 9.

Students Protest

New York, April 26 (AP) — A surging, milling throng of 1,000 students, most of them girls stormed city hall plaza today in a wild protest against teachers' wages and curtailment of out-of-class activities. The noisy demonstration capped isolated protest marches staged in other sections of the city. Police estimated that more than 10,000 students took part in the demonstrations. An estimated 9,000 paraded in front of several Brooklyn schools. The high school pupils, in the city hall demonstration, clamoring for "more pay for our teachers," stomped down a 30-foot section of railing in the park and hurled their textbooks high into the air. The demonstration caused a 10-minute traffic jam on Park Row.

To Attend Canonization

New Village, N. J., April 26 (AP)—A 60-year-old dye worker from this small Warren county town leaves for Rome tomorrow to attend the canonization of his sister, who died at the age of 11 as she defended her honor. The man, Nagelo Goretti, and his mother, now 87, will witness the canonization of the Blessed Maria Goretti—an experience that few have had in the modern history of the Roman Catholic Church. The young girl was knifed to death 48 years ago by a man who tried to assault her. Pope Pius XII declared her beatification April 27, 1947, in a ceremony attended by thousands of white-clad girls, and he also is expected to be present at the canonization.

156th Battalion Rated Excellent By Army Officers

In a federal inspection at the state armory Tuesday night, Kingston units of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York State National Guard, received an overall rating of excellent, according to Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer.

Harkin noted that the rating was above that received last year. "Citizens of Kingston and surrounding communities furnishing men to the guard may well be proud of them," he said.

The inspection was conducted by regular army officers from Fort Totten, Major V. A. Abrignani, inspector general, and Major L. Lotstein, administrative inspector.

Units of the guard inspected here were Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, Battery A, Service Battery and the Medical Detachment.

Col Harkin said that ratings ranged from excellent to superior on supply and equipment, administration, transportation, and armory, storage rooms, indoor ranges, motor pool, garage and repair facilities.

Included in the general inspection were training, appearance, morale, leadership, conduct, technical knowledge and efficiency of all units.

Following inspection, Major John A. Comstock, reserve officer, a local dentist, gave a technical lecture on biological warfare.

It was announced that the Guard is up to strength and that there is a waiting list for recruits. Anyone interested in enlisting may contact the personnel officer, or commanding officers of the units.

Another announcement last night was that Pvt. George M. Gulnac, Headquarters Battery, had qualified as expert with the carbine rifle on April 16 at Camp Smith. He made the highest record score during the two-day practice held for 130 officers and men of the battalion from Kingston and Poughkeepsie.

Poughkeepsie units of the Guard were scheduled for federal inspection today.

Shad Run Heavier

Local shad fishermen experienced their biggest hauls to date this season yesterday. Nearly all of the men who went out on drifts yesterday and last night caught between 10 and 20 fish and most of them were on the river again today. The run of shad is expected from now on to be considerably heavier.

Old Tricycle Firm Trace Is Sought

Mary Sotak of the city council, Cleveland, Ohio, wants to know if the name of a community given to her as "Handout, N. Y.," isn't actually Rondout, N. Y.

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer today received a letter from the Cleveland woman asking assistance in determining the origin of an "ancient tricycle" which she now owns.

A name on one metal piece, the letter said, is almost obliterated, and an attempt at restoration produced the names: The Sheridan, manufactured by Crosby and Glizinger & Co. Handout, N. Y.

Other findings were incomplete, but it bore the letters ENG and USAUS, Germany, and an indication that it had been patented in 1570.

The woman said she was making the inquiry here on advice of the Smithsonian Institute which thought the "Handout" might be Rondout, N. Y.

City Clerk Kramer said he would appreciate the assistance of anyone who might have information indicating that such a tricycle company once operated in Rondout

MaragonConvicted By Federal Jury

Washington, April 26 (AP)—John Maragon, who used to have friends at the White House, was convicted today of lying to Senate investigators.

A Federal District Court jury took one hour and 36 minutes to convict him of charges that he lied in testifying last July that:

1. He had only one bank account, in Washington, in 1945-46. The evidence showed that he had another then in Texas.

2. He had severed connections with Albert Verley and Co., a Chicago Importing Co., when he took a temporary job with the State Department overseas in 1945.

But Maragon was cleared of the main counts the government brought against him—that he perjured himself in saying he negotiated no business with the government and received no money for negotiations from 1945 until the middle of last year.

H. H. Smith Dies

Middletown, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—Harold H. Smith, 60, Democratic mayor of this city from January 1942 to January 1944, died yesterday of a heart ailment at a place he built—Horton Memorial Hospital. Smith, a contractor here for 32 years and a native of the city, had been under treatment for several weeks. He constructed many of Middletown's largest buildings in addition to the hospital. His widow, the former Bertha B. Earle, and two daughters, Mrs. Selmer Gustaves, of West Point, N. Y., and Mrs. Claudius Fingar, of Los Angeles, survive.

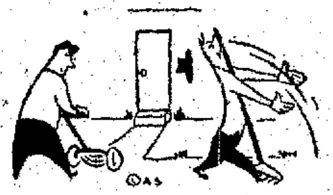
The answers to everyday insurance problems *
By HERMAN J. EATON



QUESTION: The other day a friend and I were discussing this "Home Owners Liability" insurance and a question came up that you may be able to answer. Is the property owner always liable for damages in accidents that happen on his property?

ANSWER: No, of course not. The property owner is liable only in those accidents which occur because of his negligence. Suppose a person held to a bannister while climbing stairs in the property in question and the bannister gave way because the property owner had neglected to keep it in good repair. Any resulting injury could be charged to the property owner's negligence. On the other hand, if the stair climber slid down a perfectly good bannister, and was injured because of that action, the property owner could hardly be held responsible.

* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
